ROOSEVELT ASKS 3-YEAR EXTENSION OF TARIFF POWERS

President Declares International Trade Emergency Has Not Passed and Pictures Reciprocity As a Bulwark of Peace.

REPUBLICAN TERMS PLAN TOO COSTLY

Knutson Charges Drop in Favorable Balance, Asks How Long We Are Goin' 'To Pay for Love.'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Democrats and Republicans re-fought tariff issues today when the administration opened its campaign to have congress extend the President's power to conclude reciprocal trade pacts without senatorial approval.

Mr. Roosevelt sent a letter to Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee, asking the extension as an aid to economic recovery and world peace.

Secretary of State Hull, Secretary Roper and other officials backed this up by appearing in person before the committee. Republican members shot critical questions at them and received sharp replies.

For example, Representative Knutson, Republican, Minnesota, said the United States' favorable balance of trade had shrunk from $478,000,000 in 1934 to $49,000,000 in 1936.

Way to Peace.
Hull replied in effect that instead of examining trade figures with a critical "microscope," the opposition ought to consider "fundamentals of world peace." He contends that removing trade barriers through a give-and-take is the way to peace.

"Mr. Secretary," Knutson demanded, "Do you recall any time when there was no unrest in the world?"

"Yes," Hull said, "I can recall when there were 40,000,000 people in this country wanting something to eat or wear."

At another point, Knutson demanded to know "how low we are going to let these barriers, and how low are going to dig into our jeans, to get foreigners to live like brothers?"

The President asked that the power

Pope's Attendants Note Turn for Worse

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Pope Pius was given increased quantities of sedatives tonight to fortify his weakened heart against further suffering, persons close to the holy father said.

A slight fever was reported to have developed. There was a noticeable "turn for the worse" during the day, Vatican sources said.

Newspapers called "atrocious" affected the Pope's swollen right leg and added to difficulties of blood circulation.

The Pope remained in bed until late afternoon when he was transferred to the new wheeled divan designed to keep his swollen legs horizontal and at the same time to permit his holiness to sit erect enough to aid his labored breathing.

Whitehead Bequeaths City $500,000 Yearly for Relief

Interest To Be Derived From $10,000,000 Foundation Will Approximate Total Yearly Gifts Now Made to Community Chest.

Application for a charter for the Joseph B. Whitehead Foundation will be filed in Fulton superior court "within a day or two," it was announced yesterday, as the first step in the establishment of a $10,000,000 charitable enterprise in Atlanta, with an income of approximately $500,000 a year, equalling or exceeding the amount collected annually among all the citizens of Atlanta and Fulton county for the Community Chest.

Moneys disbursed by this foundation, according to the terms of the will of the late Joseph B. Whitehead, will be divided:

1. One-fourth for toys, gifts, fruits, candies and clothes for "the most deserving orphaned homes, where fatherless or motherless children are maintained," the most substantial portion of this share to be spent at Christmas time each year.

2. The balance of the income "to be used for charity purposes and in relief of pain and suffering and poverty" through the relief of "such institutions as the Scottish Rite hospital, the Georgia Baptist hospital, and like institutions that dispense charity and are worthy and are in need of funds.

Trustee Power Broad.

3. Further terms of the will make it optional on the part of the trustees to disburse such portions of that balance as they see fit "to individuals who are deserving and to other deserving institutions, such as schools, whether the same be public or private, and in fact, any worthy and deserving individual, association or institution that said trustees may deem worthy and in need of funds herein provided for without regard to race, color or creed."

This huge fund for charitable relief was made possible for Atlanta through the settlement of a legal battle that has been in the Atlanta courts for more than a year. The payment to Mrs. Laura Graves Whitehead, widow of Joseph B. Whitehead, of a total of $700,000 has ended her contest to break the will of the husband from whom she had separated and from whom she had accepted a private settlement in 1932.

Mrs. Whitehead ended all litigation.

10,000 ATLANTANS FACE PRIVATION IN RELIEF CRISIS

Fulton Welfare Board Warns It Will Cease Operations February 1 Unless City Guarantees $25,000 Aid for Month.

STALEMATE IS HIT OVER LEGISLATION

Hartsfield, Mrs. Mankin Engage in Heated Row Over Mayor's Moves To Secure Legislative Aid.

Ten thousand crippled, aged and sick persons will be cut off emergency relief rolls February 1 unless the city of Atlanta allocates $25,000 of its appropriated relief fund for the month of February, it was decided last night at a meeting of the Fulton Board of Public Welfare at which board members and large taxpayers alike called for additional revenue from the city to take care of charities.

Decision of the board to cease operations unless city support is forthcoming by February 1 followed closely the action of the board of directors of the Community Chest in deploring the reduction in the city's relief appropriation for 1937 and promising endorsement and support for legislative acts to raise more revenue for the city.

Requests that Mayor Hartsfield and city council petition the Fulton legislative delegation for the measures needed to hike the city's income, revealed a stalemate had developed between city officials and members of the delegation as to what legislation will be passed.

Mayor in Heated Debate.
Helen Douglas Mankin, woman legislator, and Mayor Hartsfield engaged in a heated discussion as to whether or not Hartsfield had ever definitely said what legislation the city wants passed in order to increase its revenue.

"Didn't you understand what I gave the delegation a dinner for recently," Hartsfield asked her, referring to a meeting of legislators at a hotel at which he had dined.

TRUCK KILLS MAN, HURTS 3 OTHERS

Van Plunges Into Group Fixing Flat at Austell; One of Injured May Die

A father was killed instantly and his three children injured when a truck ran down them in the fog as they were fixing a punctured tire on their car, on the Bankhead highway, about a quarter of a mile this side of Austell.

Robert E. Lee Bone, 54, Hiram, Ga., farmer, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Grady hospital, where doctors said a fractured skull and other injuries caused death.

The most seriously injured son was Brewer Bone, 28, who suffered head injuries and deep shock. He was admitted to the hospital in an unconscious condition. Doctors said he may die.

The other injured, Heron Bone, 17, and Opie Bone, 14, suffered severe cuts and bruises, but were not considered seriously hurt.

According to the boys, they were on their way home from school when the crash occurred. Heron had been driving. The car was parked on the highway, with Bone, Opie and Brewer standing near the rear, and the other son toward the front of the car when the truck plowed into them and the car.

Bone is survived by his wife, and three other sons and two daughters. The injured were taken to Atlanta by passing motorists and ambulances. A. J. Smith, of Birmingham, reported by police as driver of the truck, was taken to the Cobb county jail at Marietta, pending investigation. According to the Cobb county sheriff's office, Smith said the Bone car had no tail light burning.

Cobb Says: I Like Swing Music

By IRVIN S. CORB.
(Copyright, 1937, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 21.—According to a medical professor in Pennsylvania, samples of whisky, when subjected to a musical sound treatment for seven hours, produce a liquor which equals one that has been aged in wood for at least four years. But why get excited about this? I've known certain brands of classical music which, in one evening, have aged a grown man to a point where he figures the present Christian era must be about over.

Only a few weeks ago, being softened by the spirit of the approaching holidays, I suffered myself to be lured to a Chopin recital and got jammed in and couldn't escape and finally staggered forth into the night feeling that Methuselah had little if anything on me.

Since then, through careful nursing and by listening only to swing orchestras, I've sloughed off a couple of centuries or so, but, for ever more, my motto shall be, "Do your Christmas Chopin early!" That is, if you do it at all.

STATE DELEGATION RETURNS TO CITY

Raw Inaugural Weather Results in Many Colds; McDonald Critically Ill.

By L. A. FARRELL.
Several hours behind schedule, two railroads of Georgia Democrats pulled into Terminal Station last night, their passengers weary, but happy in the realization they have aided in setting up another Democratic national administration under the leadership of President Roosevelt.

The first special arrived here at 9:45 o'clock, and the second special steamed into the terminal at 10:15 o'clock, after having left Washington early yesterday morning, an hour and a half behind schedule.

Both trains moved slowly, due to recent rains and the consequent danger of slipping, but much lost time was made up after the trains crossed the Georgia line.

As the Georgians returned home, a check-up revealed a few casualties from Wednesday's severe inaugural weather, with scores of others who braved the inclement weather to take part in the ceremonies.

The most serious sufferer from effects of the bad weather is Dr. R. H. McDonald, of Newnan, a lieutenant colonel on Governor Rivers' staff, who was struck with pneumonia late Wednesday afternoon. He was admitted to Walter Reed hospital, in Washington. Telegraphic reports which reached the special trains said his condition was improved, but still serious.

Mr. and Mrs. John I. Conner, of Atlanta, were stricken with influenza, and were confined to their beds, when Governor Rivers left Washington yesterday, after attending the inaugural and a meeting of the Democratic national committee, which was also attended by Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, of Louisville, the state's national committeewoman.

The Governor said there had been virtually no time during his visit for conferences with the two senators on matters affecting the state, although some persons indicated he might par-

Titterton Murderer, 3 Others Die in Chair

OSSENING, N. Y., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Four convicted murderers—including John Fioresi, ravisher-slayer of Authoress Nancy Titterton in New York, were executed tonight in Sing Sing prison.

The others who died in the electric chair were three negroes—Chester White, 32; Fred Fowler, 19, and Charles Ham, 28.

White slew two negro women in a drunken bout. Fowler and Ham killed Henry Duesing, a Brooklyn butcher, during a holdup.

Before he died, Fioresi said: "I feel sorry I caused my mother all the trouble. She stood by me while I realized there was no hope for me. I tried to make her believe that there was."

Well-Slapped Former Police Chief Asks for Complaint Against Rheba

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The lusty slap Evangelist Rheba Crawford administered Harry Comber re-echoed today when he asked for a battery complaint.

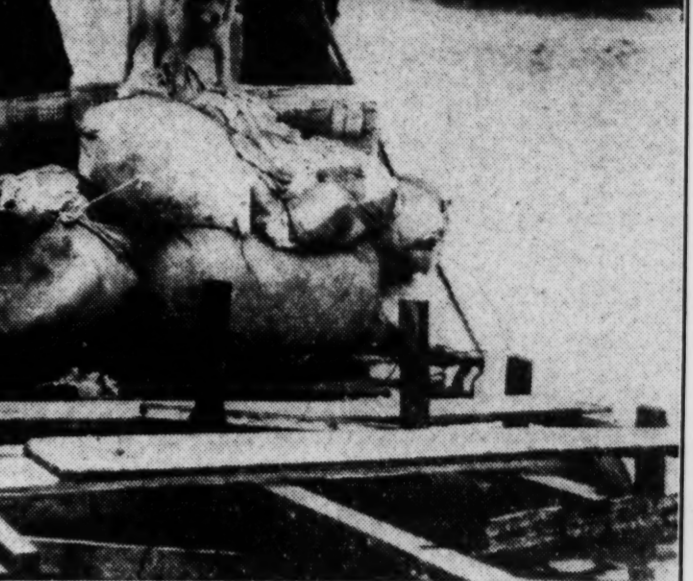

The erstwhile "Angel of Broadway" smacked Comber yesterday as she stalked in high dudgeon from an attorney's office where she gave a deposition in her $1,000,000 slander suit against Aimee Semple McPherson.

Comber, former police chief of San Clemente and now bodyguard for Willard Andrews, appeared at the city attorney's office with Andrews, counsel for Mrs. McPherson.

C. C. Brown, deputy city attorney, set January 29 for a hearing to decide whether to issue the complaint. He said he would get Miss Crawford's story of the slapping.

"I don't know why I did it," said Miss Crawford, "unless it was because of all those untrue things they were hinting at. It's the first time I ever lost my temper."

Rafts Used To Evacuate Flooded Homes in Tennessee

Rafts improvised with oil drums are being used by flood relief workers to evacuate homes flooded by rising waters of the Cumberland river near Nashville, Tenn. One of these is shown carrying hastily bundled household goods and a slightly puzzled household pet to a place of safety.

REFUGEES SEEKING SHELTER IN TENTS

13,000 Residents of Portsmouth, Ohio, Advised to Prepare to Evacuate by City Manager.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Nearly 80,000 persons were unofficially estimated homeless tonight in the flooded areas of the midwest.

Meantime, rain or snow continued to fall over a wide section, resulting in predictions by meteorologists that most of the rivers, already running above flood stages, would reach even higher levels.

Red Cross and relief agencies rushed food, clothing and tents and blankets into every zone that called for assistance. Ten states had reported heavy damage.

The entire populations of Lawrenceburg and Aurora, Ind., were moving out. Flood waters of the Ohio river threatened to crush newly built levees. Calls for help were sent to Indianapolis.

A special relief train was being made up to take supplies to the stricken areas.

Without Electricity.
Three Indiana towns and five in Kentucky were without electricity when flood waters of the Ohio river cut off the Electric Light & Power Company at Troy, Ind.

At Portsmouth, Ohio, City Manager Frank Sheehan announced sewers of the city would be opened at 6 a. m. Friday, letting floodwaters of the Ohio river cover the business district. Sirens screamed the "abandon city" warning at midnight tonight.

With the announcement, a steady movement from the besieged sector became an orderly but double-time rush.

The ominous river lapped around the 61-foot levee, and the opening of sewers was feared as the only possible means of saving the concrete flood wall and preventing a general disaster.

One Death Reported.
One death was reported at Tyler, Tenn., where a four-month-old negro drowned in overflow water. The mother saved an older child.

A man and woman, both ill of pneumonia, died at Nashville.

Rebels Seek To Block Arms Cargo From U.S.

SAINT JEAN DE LUZ, Franco-Spanish frontier, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Spanish Rebel army, aided by German warships, tonight spread a blockade from the French border to Gibraltar in an effort to capture a $2,000,000 cargo of war materials from the United States.

The cargo, consigned to the Loyallists from the Vimalter Company, Ltd., of Jersey City, is aboard the Spanish steamer, Mar Cantabrico. The ship was halted off Sandy Hook by United States coast guard cutters on January 6 while congress was voting on an arms embargo.

The steamer had passed the three-mile limit, however, before passage of the bill in Washington.

Former Elevator Operator Rises To Chief of Detective Division

By T. K. JONES.

A little more than four decades ago one of the most dependable baggage checkers at Terminal station was James Albert McKibben.

Wednesday the ex-checkroom boy, at the age of 55, was named commanding officer of the detective division of the Atlanta Police Department by Acting Chief M. A. Hornsby.

A man, whose career in comparison with a prize Alger story would make the latter seem like a plausible, everyday occurrence, accepted the important new post with the modesty and few words that have characterized his mode of living.

"I'm grateful for your confidence in me and I'll do the best I can," he told the chief.

"I know you will and your best is good enough for me," the chief, also more a man of action than words, replied.

Has Carried Heavy Loads.

"Mack, you're taking over a tough job with 15 less men than the bureau has had," Chief Hornsby reminded the officer who, with the rank of lieutenant, has commanded the day shift detective detail during the two years since his promotion to a lieutenant.

"I know it," McKibben said, "but when I was a boy checking baggage at the Terminal I carried some heavy suitcases."

At that point the matter was allowed to rest temporarily.

The city's new No. 1 detective was born August 3, 1882, at Locust Grove, Henry county, Georgia.

Ambitious even in his early years he left the old homestead and came to Atlanta to seek his fortune, which consisted at the outset, of the Terminal checkroom job.

Was Elevator Operator.

Later he worked in the Peters and Hurt buildings as an elevator operator. At the Candler building he held a similar job and after a few years there was promoted to the place of superintendent of the building employees.

On May 4, 1908, romance entered the picture, as happens in most all real success stories, and he was married to Miss Jessie McAtee, of Sullivan, Ind.

Their union has been a happy one and today Lieutenant McKibben attributes "most all I've ever had or done to the 'boss' at home."

They have two sons, Herbert L., 27, and James A. Jr., 21, both employed as operators of typewriter machines in the Atlanta office of the Associated Press.

About his career as a police officer McKibben usually is pleasantly reticent because "I wouldn't like to embarrass anybody I've ever sent up who might be going straight now."

Joined Force in 1912.

Records show he was elected to the force on February 6, 1912, and for the first few years thereafter worked as a "bicycle patrolman" on the early morning watch in the old first and fifth wards.

Most of his service with the department, however, has been in the detective division, where his principal assignment was to the auto theft squad.

With his partners, who have included Captain Jack Malcom, now head of the traffic division; Detective Ed Meek, of the present auto theft detail, and the late well-known Atlanta detective, Sam Smith, McKibben has "cracked" many notorious theft rings.

He resigned from the department on June 1, 1920, and went to Cincinnati, where he was engaged in the real estate business until March, 1927, when he rejoined the local constabulary.

Quiet, cordial and energetic, the new detective division commander is exceedingly popular and respected. Briefly, "he's a right guy," as one fellow officer observed.

RADEK DOOMED TO DIE BEFORE TRIAL IS BEGUN

Writer and 16 Others Accused of 'Selling Out' to Antagonistic Nations.

MOSCOW, Jan. 21.—(UP)—The Communist party organ Pravda intimated today that Karl Radek, internationally known Soviet publicist, and 16 Bolsheviks who go on trial with him Saturday, will be shot.

Asserting that the wretched, humorous little journalist and his associates plotted with foreign powers to war on the Soviet government, Pravda said:

"The proletarian court will pay them in full measure for their low treason to the motherland." This was considered virtual doom.

Pravda recalled the trial of the Zinoviev-Kamenyev group, and said they had hoped to take to their graves the secret of a "parallel center" of counter-revolutionaries. The paper continued:

"They (the defendants) have the same deeply hostile, infuriated hatred of Socialism and the Soviet country and of the people who are building Socialism as the leaders of German Fascism. They sold themselves to that group of imperialistic governments who are incendiaries of war, dreaming to split the U. S. S. R. with the help of foreign bayonets and establish the power of capitalism and the bourgeoisie."

Izvestia, the government newspaper, joined the attack, calling Radek "an oscillating, treacherous, poisonous, Trotskyist reptile."

G. Polhill, with Miss Tommie Martin, senior director; entertainment of state executive board in 1931; marking of soldiers' graves in Stonehill cemetery and continued upkeep of them; record of four years as star chapter.

Other articles appearing in the issue include an account of Rabun Gap school, greetings from Governor Rivers and governors of other southern states; life histories of Lee, Benjamin Harvey Hill and other war figures.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES

BY Sally Siver

Breakfast, that all-important first meal of the day, is often a problem to many housewives. While it is true that this particular meal does not present as many different menu possibilities as lunch or dinner, nevertheless, if a housewife does a little careful planning she can prevent this meal from becoming a monotonous repetition of the same foods served morning after morning.

During the winter hot breakfasts and heavier foods become popular, such as waffles, griddle cakes, eggs, bacon, ham and sausage. One can add variety to the menu by alternating the type of fresh fruits served—grapefruit, oranges, tangerines, etc.

Speaking of waffles, there is a new waffle mix on the market. You can now serve golden-brown, crunchy waffles in just about five minutes. All the fine ingredients—flour, eggs, milk, sugar, baking powder, pure vegetable shortening, salt, flavoring—are already mixed. You simply add water and stir. In two minutes, your rich, creamy batter goes on the waffle iron and three minutes later you have delicious waffles. Ask your grocer about this new waffle mix.

Serving of Tangerines.
Following are suggestions for the preparation and serving of tangerines. Tangerines are served without the addition of sugar, because their natural flavor is delicate and sweet. The fruit should be served without breaking the thin protective membrane which holds the shape and prevents exposure of the juice and pulp to the air.

An interesting way to prepare tangerines to enhance their appearance and appetite appeal is as follows: Cut from the stem and downward, slash the tangerine rind into eight equal sections. Peel each section back, being careful not to peel it completely free at the base of the tangerine. Remove the excess white membrane from the fruit sections and break them apart enough so that they can easily be removed when served.

Another variation of this may be prepared by slipping a slice of banana between each loosened section of the tangerine just before serving. Top with a maraschino cherry.

An attractive arrangement of the tangerine sections may be had by placing them in a circle on a sprig of green leaves, or a paper doily, with a maraschino cherry to garnish the center of the ring.

Try the following coffee cake recipe when you want something different for breakfast:

Coffee Cake.
Two tablespoons shortening, 1 tablespoon white sugar, 1 egg, beaten, 3 1/2 cup milk, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 1/4 cup chopped nuts.
Cream the sugar and shortening. Add beaten egg. Sift flour with baking powder and salt and alternately with the milk to egg and sugar mixture. Pour into a greased rectangular tin dish. Combine brown sugar, nuts, cinnamon and sprinkle over the top. Bake in a moderate oven for 35 or 40 minutes.

"An egg in a nest
Is egg at its best"
The nest referred to in this verse,

however, is not a hen's nest, but simply the baked white of an egg into which the yolk is placed, giving it the appearance of being "an egg in a nest."

Eggs served in this tempting fashion require a minimum of time and effort and the finished dish has an eye appeal that telegraphs a message that tempts the palate. Tender pieces of Canadian bacon or ham may be appropriate accompaniments to serve with this delightfully different breakfast dish.

The recipe is as follows:
One egg, 1 1/2 teaspoon butter, 1 slice toast, salt and pepper to taste.

Beat an egg white until stiff. Arrange on toast. Make a depression in center. Put in butter and seasoning. Slip in the egg yolk. Bake in moderate hot oven (375 degree) until set and slightly brown. Increase these amounts according to the number of servings needed.

A Sunday in January.
Dinner, serving four or five:
Celery Soup
Waters, Olives
Pot Roast With Vegetables
Cabbage Salad
Bread, Grape Jelly
Butter Pecan Ice Cream
White Cake
Coffee

Pot Roast.
Four and one-half pounds rump roast, 1 1/4 pound suet, 1 1/4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 1/2 cups minced onion, 1 1/4 cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 1/2 cup boiling water.

Melt suet in large frying pan or iron pot; when hot add meat which has been sprinkled with the flour. Brown meat well on all sides. Add rest of ingredients. Cover tightly and simmer 3 hours. Add vegetables.

Vegetables.
Six peeled potatoes, 6 peeled carrots, 6 peeled turnips, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt. Sprinkle salt on the vegetables and arrange around meat. Cover tightly and simmer one hour. Carefully remove the meat and vegetables to serving platter and make the gravy.

Gravy.
Four tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 1 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Add flour to the drippings left in the cooking pan; when mixed add rest of ingredients and boil 2 minutes. Serve in small dish or pour over the cooked foods on the serving platter. Garnish with parsley and serve immediately.

Butter Pecan Ice Cream.
Four tablespoons butter, 1 1/2 cup pecans, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 2 cups milk, 1 cup cream, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 1/2 cup water, 1 egg—beaten.
Mix butter and pecans. Cook 5 minutes. Add to rest of ingredients and cook 3 minutes in double boiler. Cook and freeze regular method, or in a mechanical refrigerator.

Dinner, serving three or four:
Grilled Meat Cakes.
Savory Browned Vegetables
Bread
Peach Salad
Coffee

Grilled Meat Cakes.
(If you have a broiler use it for this dish; if not bake in a moderate oven, basting frequently.)

One pound beef—round chopped, 1 1/2 cup crumbs, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 1 1/2 teaspoon minced onion, 1 1/2 teaspoon minced parsley, 3 tablespoons catsup.
Mix ingredients and shape into 4 cakes, 2 1/2 inch thick. Place in broiler pan and broil 12 minutes, turning several times to allow even cooking.

Savory Brown Vegetables.
Four large onions—sliced, 4 boiled potatoes, 4 slices cooked beets, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Place onion slices on shallow pan, top with potatoes and rest of ingredients. Broil or bake 15 minutes.

Raisin Filling.
One and one-half cups flour, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cup lard, 3 tablespoons cold water.
Mix flour and salt. Cut in lard and mixing with knife, slowly add the water. When stiff dough forms, break off 3 1/4 of it and roll out and fit into small baking pan. Add filling and roll out remaining dough and cut out thin pastry strips. Arrange these cross-fashion across the top. Bake 10 minutes in hot oven, lower fire and bake 30 minutes.

Two cups raisins, 2 1/2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons grated orange rind, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons orange juice.
Mix ingredients, simmer 5 minutes. Pour into pie crust.

DRYS TO SEEK REPEAL OF BEER, WINE LAWS

Gaines Announces Plan for Fight in Assembly for Rigid Prohibition.

W. W. Gaines, president of the consolidated forces for prohibition, announced here yesterday his organization will sponsor a fight in the state general assembly for repeal of laws permitting sale of beer and wine, and for a more rigid enforcement of laws prohibiting sale of hard liquors.

With the co-operation of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and other organizations favoring prohibition, Gaines' organization will face a body of legislators, some of whom are considering legalizing and taxing whiskey as a means of raising revenue to meet the administration program of old-age pensions and state guarantee of school operation.

Three alcohol control bills already have reached the house of representatives. Two are repeal measures for wine and beer, while the third is a proposal to tax wine. The repeal measures were introduced by Representative Randall Evans, of McDuffie county.

Gaines declared he had seen evidence of a "strong prohibition sentiment in both houses."

Capitol observers expect one of the most debated points in the assembly session starting next Monday to revolve around the liquor question.

PROCEEDS OF CONCERT TO AID CONVENTION

A concert presenting several widely known musicians of the state will be given at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the Piedmont hotel under the sponsorship of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, according to announcement yesterday by Helen Knox Spain, chairman. Proceeds will be used towards bringing artists and lecturers of international fame to Atlanta for the federation's state convention on March 31 to April 2.

Artists appearing Tuesday night include Miss Lucile Kimble, assistant to Hugh Hodgson at the University of Georgia; Robert Harrison, violinist, winner of scholarship; and awards in several state and district contests; Tom Brumby, pianist, who has toured as soloist with the Emory University Glee Club; and J. T. Pittman, well-known concert pianist and accompanist. The program will consist of compositions new to most of the Atlanta audience, which will be limited to 200 people. Reservations may be made through Mrs. Spain or Mrs. Waldo Oettinger.

WATCHMAN SHY CASH AFTER BURGLAR'S VISIT

The face of J. D. Murray, watchman at the Atlanta Candy Company, 306 Decatur street, was a bit red yesterday morning when he awoke to find the place had been burglarized, the loot including $150 taken from his trousers and his flashlight.

Murray told Detective John Chester he sleeps on the premises, and when he awoke, he discovered his trousers in another room. Other loot included a 100-pound sack of sugar, $19 in cash and a $20 watch.

A ventilator in a ceiling served as entrance for the burglars.

New Local Anesthetic Announced to Scientists

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(UP)—A new, fast-working local anesthetic, which reduces danger of bleeding, was announced today in Science, official journal of American scientists.

The anesthetic is a new, artificially made chemical. It combines, in experiments on animals, the an-nouncement states, the chemical effects of novocaine and epinephrine. It has not yet been used on human beings.

The announcement was made by Raymond L. Osborne, M. D., of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University. The idea of the new anesthetic, he explained, is to constrict the blood vessels so that the pain-killing part of the drug is not washed away and the anesthetic effect can last longer.

Anesthesia was produced definitely within one minute in the animal tests, he said.

The new substance is named epinephrine and its chemical structure given as alpha beta alphaethano-hydrochloride.

DECATUR LEGION REMODELS ROOMS

Opening of New Quarters Is To Be Celebrated on February 6.

Members of the Harold Byrd Post No. 66, American Legion, Decatur, are at work on their new clubrooms at 105 Courthouse square. Opening of the new quarters is planned for February 6.

The new auditorium, measuring 50 by 22 feet, is so arranged as to accommodate joint meetings of the Legion and the Auxiliary. All work of remodeling and decorating is being done at night by members of the post, under the supervision of Lanier Billups.

Vernon Frank, commander of the post, and Mrs. C. L. Edwards, head of the Auxiliary, will be in charge of the open house planned for the formal dedication.

All material necessary for renovating the clubrooms has been donated by various organizations in Atlanta and Decatur.

'WINDFALL TAX' LAW IS UPHOLD BY COURT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—(UP)—The so-called "windfall tax" assessed against agricultural processors after invalidation of the agricultural adjustment act, and claimed by the government, was upheld today by Federal Judge Leon Yankwich.

In a test case, Judge Yankwich ruled that the supreme court, while nullifying the AAA, recognized the right of congress to pass a processing tax, and the "windfall tax" was ordered re-collected from processing firms.

Georgia Owner Sought For Silver Wine Cup

C. W. McClane, of San Antonio, Texas, has in his possession a silver wine cup which he is anxious to restore to the original owner or his heirs, somewhere in Georgia. The piece was acquired by Mr. McClane's father from an abandoned mansion in the state during Sherman's famous "march to the sea."

All records concerning the locality in which the silver was stolen have either been forgotten or destroyed during the intervening years.

The cup is engraved with the letters "H. A. L." bearing also the trade name of "Brown and Anderson."

Unless the rightful owners appear within a reasonable length of time the cup will be turned over to a museum either in Georgia or Texas, Mr. McClane said.

AUTO STRIKE ACTION PUT UP TO ROOSEVELT

employees can join any group, and we will deal with any group that's at all representative of our employees," Sloan said.

His last words were that one million dollars a day in wages were being lost in "American homes" because of the walkout.

Lewis, in talking with reporters, said that labor expected administration support in its battle with "economic royalists."

"We have advised the Secretary of Labor that the 'economic royalists'—and the duPonts and Mr. Sloan (General Motors president) are among them—used their money to try to drive Mr. Roosevelt out of the White House," Lewis said.

"We helped President."

Lewis rallied to the President's support when they attacked him.

"These same economic royalists now have their fangs in labor, and labor now expects the government to support labor in its legal and logical objectives."

Lewis also told the conference that "after General Motors signs a contract, we expect to do a little collective bargaining with Mr. Ford." Asked whether the union then would tackle Chrysler, Lewis said—"Mr. Chrysler also."

Lewis held the press conference soon after he and Homer Martin, president of the auto workers, had talked with Miss Perkins.

He had advised her, he said, that the union was willing to meet General Motors officials to work out a strike settlement at any time, but that the sit-down strikers would remain in the Fisher Body plants at Flint, Mich.

Lewis added that he understood General Motors had not given up its position that it would not negotiate as long as the Fisher Body plants were occupied.

Miss Perkins said this morning that General Motors now was willing to refrain from negotiating with any other group of workers while negotiations with the United Auto Workers were under way.

The company's acceptance last week of a proposal to negotiate with the Flint Alliance (a group opposing the strike) aroused the United Auto Workers. In the resulting controversy

Ruinous Cold Wave Looms in California

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—(P)—The worst freeze since 1913, when the entire citrus fruit crop was destroyed, was forecast for southern California's valuable orange and lemon belt tonight while frigid weather tightened its hold on the far west.

Weather forecasters warned that the cold might ruin most of the citrus crop, valued at $12,000,000 last year.

an agreement for negotiations between the motors firm and union was abandoned.

Stupendous Double-Cross.

Lewis called the Flint Alliance episode "one of the most stupendous double-crosses in industrial history." He said the union would not go back to last Saturday's truce "because we are not going to give General Motors another chance to double-cross us."

Lewis said he was aware he was fighting a "united front" of financial and industrial interests whose purpose was to crush him, but that he expected this "united front" to "crack."

General Motors' competitors, he said, could get glass now that the strike was settled and would make great inroads in General Motors markets.

The corporation's salesmen, he said, already were leaving for other companies.

Withdrawal of the sit-down strikers, Lewis said, would "disarm labor" while General Motors still was armed with John Doe warrants, munitions, tear gas, pistols and rifles. Labor, he added, would not "disarm."

Martin sat at Lewis' side while the hefty miner talked to about 50 newspapermen.

Meantime, Secretary of Labor Perkins, plainly showed marks of fatigue and loss of sleep, strove desperately to settle the strike.

Miss Perkins refrained, however, from any display of optimism.

"I wish I could give you a handsome report of progress but there is only a riddle," she told reporters.

MOTOR FIRMS AFFECTED BY GLASS SHORTAGE

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—(P)—Despite prospective settlement of glass industry strikes, the shortage of that product affected motor car manufacturing lines today.

Chrysler Corporation closed the Detroit plants of its divisions—Plymouth, DeSoto, Dodge and Chrysler—until Monday, announcing that present sources were unable to supply sufficient glass for requirements of the five-day production week that has been in effect since January 1. Approximately 50,000 workers were affected.

General Motors Corporation, its production paralyzed by strikes in a number of plants and by material shortages, issued a claim late today that 110,000 employees, representing 70 per cent of the total employment in 43 of its automotive plants, have protested against the interruption of operations.

The corporation, whose officers are in Washington where strike settlement efforts are under way, said copies of some of the workers' petitions expressing satisfaction with present bargaining methods have been sent to President Roosevelt and to governors of some of the states affected. Other expressions of opposition were given in mass meetings, the statement issued here said.

May Open Way.

Motor industry observers said they expected settlement of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass strike to open the way for replenishment of Chrysler and some other manufacturers' supplies by week after next.

At Pittsburgh Glen W. McCabe, president of the Federation of Flat Glass Workers, made a charge denied by the company, that Libby-Owens-Ford at Toledo was "holding up" a settlement of strikes affecting its 7,000 employees, "using the argument that General Motors is down flat, that General Motors is their big customer and that they do not need the glass anyway."

The glass workers and the United Automobile Workers of America, whose strikes have resulted in idleness of 130,000 General Motors employees, have a "joint council" for discussion of strike moves. Both are members of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

"Act of Bad Faith."

The corporation's offer to meet with representatives of the Flint Alliance, a group opposing the strikes, was listed by the union as an "act of bad faith" leading to decision to keep its sit-down strikers in two Fisher Body plants at Flint, Mich. This continuing occupancy blocked settlement negotiations which had been provided for in a truce arranged by Governor Frank Murphy.

Examinations of four U. A. W. A. leaders charged with inciting a riot near one of the Fisher plants January 11 in which 27 persons were injured, were postponed today until February 18, at request of their attorney.

The defendants are Robert Travis, and Victor and Roy Reuther, union organizers, and Henry Kraus, editor of the Daily Auto Worker.

Emphasizing the C. I. O.-American Federation of Labor split, the Cleveland celebration today withdrew its "moral and financial support" from the U. A. W. A. strike at a Fisher Body plant there. The A. F. of L. has suspended C. I. O. members for their plan of organizing labor by industries rather than by crafts.

Mechanics affiliated with the U. A. W. A. picketed 13 large garages at Racine, Wis., demanding shorter hours, higher wages and other concessions.

EXAMINATION ORDERED.

Safety Director Eliot Ness, of Cleveland, has ordered hospital examination of all persons arrested for intoxication in an unconscious or semiconscious condition. Ness pointed to the fact that at least two persons in Cleveland died in police cells in the past year because police wrongly diagnosed their cases as intoxication.

Ragweed is believed to be the cause of 90 per cent of all hay fever in the United States.

RICHBERG ADVOCATES ALTERATIONS IN LAWS GOVERNING BUSINESS

Plan Would Wipe Out Monopolistic and Unfair Practices.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(P)—Donald R. Richberg, former NRA administrator, proposed tonight before a convention of dry goods retailers a revision of federal business laws to express plainly a national economic policy.

"To enforce it and 'wipe out' monopolistic and unfair practices," he suggested new governmental machinery consisting of:

A commission with "clearly defined and definitely limited powers" to apply the business law.

An administrative agency "authorized to apply the legislatively defined policy in encouraging and aiding businessmen to cooperate in improving the fairness and efficiency of industrial methods."

Approved Wage Plan.

Before Richberg spoke, at an evening banquet, the National Retail Dry Goods Association in a general session approved in principle limits on working hours, minimum wages and elimination of child labor.

But it sidestepped the question of state or federal legislation to achieve the goal of improved working conditions, leaving it up to a special committee to investigate and report on a specific program.

Richberg described his proposals as "a method of solution which I believe it is worthwhile and logical to try next—a method of improving cooperation between business and the national government."

"This method is no panacea," he added, "merely a mechanism which will accomplish much or little according to the ability and the public spirit of those who operate it."

He aimed, he said, "not to write a lot of new laws but essentially to restate and classify existing laws."

Resolutions Adopted.

A resolution adopted by the Retailers' Association approved objectives and principles set forth in the broad platform drafted by the directors.

Aside from working conditions, it endorsed "elimination of deception in advertising and inaccurate labeling" and conferences with manufacturers and wholesalers on trade practices.

Other resolutions called for amendments to the federal surtax on undivided corporation profits and extension of the federal housing act.

David E. Mosser, treasurer and general manager of Conrad & Co., Boston, was re-elected president of the association.

'MORATORIUM ON WAR' IS ADVOCATED BY BYRD

Plan Would Provide Time for Adjustment of Complicating Interests.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(P)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, made public tonight what he termed an "important" proposal for world peace, submitted to him by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

"The plan is for the English-speaking nations of the world, jointly and in the name of humanity, to propose a six-month moratorium on war," Admiral Byrd wrote.

In reply Dr. Butler agreed to join him in proposing to the president and the secretary of state "that they invite the co-operation of the other English-speaking nations in making to all the signatories of the pact of Paris the proposal which you so cogently advocate."

Admiral Byrd announced here in an address last June 5 he would devote his life to peace.

In Boise, Idaho, on a lecture tour last night he reiterated his intention to dedicate his efforts to peace.

In his letter to Dr. Butler he said that "the whole world would breathe a sigh of relief" if such a moratorium should be declared.

"The armistice period of half a year," he wrote, "would give the nations time to adjust the conflicting interests and quarrels that unless checked will lead inevitably to war."

"It is a nation's right," he added, "and a duty to itself and the human race, to invite other nations to join in a friendly demand to quelling nations that they declare a holiday on war for a reasonable period, to give them time for calm thought and wise planning before engaging in overt acts that lead to fighting. This country, it seems to me, would have the right to act alone in this matter."

THE COOK'S NOTE BOOK

By RUTH CHAMBERS.

Is there any household in which the quick meal problem doesn't have to be solved now and then? There are times when it is a joy to serve an elaborate meal, but there are other times when one lacks either time or energy or perhaps even the inclination to spend many minutes in the kitchen.

It is always a delightful feeling to know that appetizing and satisfying meals can be prepared in quick time. It gives the homemaker a quick sense of freedom to know that if she wants best first-aids in such an emergency. There are many ways to serve it so that one can avoid monotony by taking a little thought. Combine it with cooked peas, or carrots, or mushrooms. Serve it with boiled, reheated rice, or on toast, or in patty shells, or with Chinese noodles.

Ground beef, which can be quickly broiled, cooked in ham and, of course, bacon are other easily prepared meats which can be the basis of the main dish for a quick meal.

With a salad, (fruit or green vegetables, or relish) and a simple dessert (ice cream, stewed fruits, cake or a fancy pastry) you have a meal of which you may well be proud.

Creamed Chipped Beef and Rice.

One-half pound sliced dried beef, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups milk, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 egg, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Place the butter and 1-2 cups milk in a small frying pan. When hot, add the beef, shredded. Cook for three minutes. Rub the flour smooth in the remaining milk, add a dash of pepper and the grated cheese. Stir this into the beef. As soon as it thickens, reduce the temperature and add the well-beaten egg. The hot sauce will cook the egg. Serve with hot cooked or reheated rice.

Grilled Bacon and Tomatoes.

Bacon slices, 5 slices bread, cut in rounds, 2 large tomatoes, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Toast bread on one side. Slice the tomatoes in thick slices and place one piece on each side of bread, the untoasted side. Sprinkle grated cheese over the top. Cross 2 slices of bacon on each and place on the broiler rack under a low flame. Allow to cook slowly until the bacon is crisp and the cheese is melted. Serve with additional slices of crisp broiled bacon and a garnish of pickle strips.

Ham Toast.

Two cups cooked ham, minced; 3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 6 double slices buttered toast, salt and pepper.

Combine butter and flour with milk to make a cream sauce. Moisten minced ham with sauce. Cut the rounds of toast into two sizes and arrange the larger ones on a hot serving dish. Heap the creamed ham and place the smaller round of toast on top of each. Press down lightly so that a ripple of pink will show. Pour the remaining sauce around, sprinkle with minced parsley and serve.

Bacon Omelet.

Beat 4 eggs, without separating the yolks and the whites, to a light froth, adding 4 tablespoons of water, 1-2 teaspoons of salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Meantime cut 6 thin slices of bacon into dice and fry a golden brown. Remove the bacon from the fat and keep it warm; then pour off all the fat from the pan except just enough to keep the omelet from sticking. Turn in the egg mixture. Cook the omelet carefully and just before folding sprinkle with crispy cooked bacon. Fold and serve at once on a hot platter.

Broiled Ground Beef.

One pound ground beef, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon mustard, 1-2 green pepper, minced; 1 small onion, minced; 1 cup stewed tomatoes.

Season the beef with the salt and mustard, then shape in one cake about 3-4 inch thick in a shallow pan. Cover with the pepper and onion, dot with butter and pour over the stewed tomatoes. Boil 10 to 15 minutes.

Relief Load Declines

30 PCT. FROM '35 PEAK

3,000,000 Drawing Checks From U. S.; Recovery Bill Now $10,000,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(P)—The nation's relief load has dropped nearly 30 per cent from the peak of more than 5,300,000 families and single persons in January, 1935.

This was disclosed today in a new federal survey compiled by Emerson Ross and T. E. Waugh, statistical experts in the Works Progress Administration.

Simultaneously, treasury figures indicated that $10,000,000,000 available to the federal government has been spent under the heading, "Recovery and relief."

The Ross survey showed the "net number of relief persons" in the peak month of January two years ago was about 16 per cent of the total population. His latest adjustments carried the statistics to September of last year, when close to 3,000,000 families and single persons were receiving federal relief money. This was about 11 per cent of the population.

3,000,000 Draw Checks.

Isolated figures compiled by the Works Progress Administration reflect a further downward trend since then and indicate that perhaps less than 3,000,000 family heads and individuals now are drawing checks from federal relief pay windows.

The WPA statistical experts have estimated that the average relief recipient probably shares his income with four other persons. On that basis, between 20,000,000 and 21,000,000 persons were "on relief" at the peak, and less than 12,000,000 now are dependent on federal emergency spending.

As for the cost of relief, the federal expenditures began with $300,000,000 delivered to the states by the Reconstruction Corporation in 1932. The next year the Civil Works program took $502,000,000.

From May in the same year through November 30, 1936, the Emergency Relief Administration made more than $3,000,000,000 available to the states.

WPA's $2,300,000,000.

WPA has spent $2,300,000,000 and other agencies, including the Civilian Conservation Corps, Agricultural Administration and the federal building program of the Public Works Administration have pushed the spending to the $10,000,000,000 mark.

The WPA statisticians said they had to depend on estimates and other variable factors in attempting to show the unduplicated total relief load.

Ross said his estimates did not represent the total volume of public dependency because they excluded those who received categorical assistance (old-age pensions), surplus commodities, burial allowances and care in poor farms, almshouses, hospitals or other institutions.

Conference Stalled.

The Georgians left behind a committee of three members of the senate and four members of the house to attend the nation-wide legislative conference which is being held there today and tomorrow. They will return to Atlanta Sunday in time to be present at the opening of the regular biennial session which is due to start Monday morning. The senate members remaining behind are all strong Rivers men and their presence will be needed Monday when the Governor sends his first nominations up for confirmation.

These will include Chairman W. L. Miller of the State Highway Board, Engineer Member E. Jack Smith and one member of the Revenue Commission, Chairman J. B. Jones, of Gainesville. The nomination of R. E. Gornley, of Culberty, to be state superintendent of banks also will go up Monday, as will several others.

Bridge parties held the attention of most of the travelers on the return journey. Most of them slept late, and breakfast was served in the diners until lunch time. Most of those on board were tired, and as eager to get home as they were to "take off" last Monday.

To gain quick alkalization, just do this: Take two teaspoons of PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA 30 minutes after eating. OR—take two of the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets.

Relief comes almost at once—usually in a few minutes. Nausea, "gas"—fullness after eating and "acid indigestion" pains leave. You feel like a new person.

HOUSE GROUP REPORTS POSTMASTERSHIP BILL

Ramspeck Measure Would Put 1st, 2d, 3d Class Jobs Under Civil Service.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The house committee on civil service today reported out favorably the Ramspeck bill extending the classified civil service to include postmasters of the first, second and third classes.

As chairman of the committee, Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, explained the purpose of his measure was to place these postmasters (fourth-class postmasters are already classified) under civil service in accordance with the civil service act of 1883.

Practically the same bill was forced to a vote in the house during the closing days of the last session of congress, but under suspension of the rules, it failed of a two-thirds majority. The vote was 208 to 112.

"My measure has the endorsement of the Civil Service Commission, conforms to President Roosevelt's government reorganization plans and is in accord with the wishes of a great number of postmasters and members of congress," the Georgian said.

Harry B. Mitchell, president of the commission, has advised Ramspeck that all postmaster positions should be placed affirmatively in the competitive classified service.

President Mitchell wrote, "to give consideration either to the non-competitive classification of the incumbent postmaster or to filling the position by promotion before the Civil Service Commission is to be called upon to hold open competitive examination."

Section 1 of the bill provides that present postmasters may serve the balance of their terms before the act becomes effective, and that they may be reappointed and classified non-competitively.

STATE WORK DINNER

PLANNED BY Y. M. C. A.

More than 200 men and women from all sections of Georgia will attend the annual state work dinner of the Y. M. C. A. to be held at the Ansley hotel next Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock, it was announced yesterday by H. W. Rhorer, state secretary.

Plans for the dinner were completed at a meeting of the state advisory committee, headed by S. C. Dobbs, earlier this week, and invitations have been forwarded to all friends and patrons of the Y. M. C. A. throughout Georgia.

Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida and one of the nation's leading educators, writers and speakers, will deliver the principal address at the dinner. Other speakers will include Abit Nix, of Athens, and Dr. Harvey W. Cox, of Emory University.

'FRENCHY' REPUDIATES PREVIOUS CONFESSION OF SLAYING TROOPER

Benoit, While Disinterested-
ly Chewing Gum, Pleads
'Not Guilty.'

MONROE, Mich., Jan. 21.—(AP)—A blacksmith accused of killing State Trooper Richards F. Hammond and handcuffing him to a mail box, chose in court today to fight the charge, but there were indications he might change his mind.

Orva Jackson, state police sergeant, said Benoit was ready to go into "court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and plead guilty to a murder charge."

Captured last night while attempting to run a state police blockade in a stolen farm truck, Benoit was quoted by Prosecutor Francis C. Ready as admitting in an oral statement that he

Huge Hall Is Sought For Inaugurations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Future presidential inaugurations may be indoors.

The rainstorm that marred President Roosevelt's second inauguration caused Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, to propose today a public auditorium huge enough to house such ceremonies. He said it should be a government project, but available for rental to repay its cost.

shot Trooper Hammond Tuesday night.

In municipal court today he stood handcuffed to a state police officer and spoke just two words, "Not guilty."

In response to a question by Judge John P. Foucher, he appeared only mildly interested in the proceedings, and chewed gum as the first-degree murder warrant was read.

Sheriff Joseph J. Bailey, quoted Benoit as having told him just before the arraignment: "They'd never have taken me that easily if I had known there was a murder rap against me. I thought Hammond was only wounded."

Prosecutor Ready said Benoit admitted last night that he slugged Hammond with the butt of a pistol as the officer was taking him to the Monroe county jail on an automobile theft charge, and later shot him through the head before handcuffing him to the mail box post.

Benoit was held without bail for circuit court arraignment. Also held today on a concealed weapons charge was Benoit's companion on the night of the crime, John H. Smith. He waived examination and will be arraigned in circuit court Saturday.

SPAIN TELLS CIVILIANS TO EVACUATE MADRID

Red Fliers Give Battle to Rebel Bombers Over Capital City.

MADRID, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Defense authorities tonight gave the civil population 72 hours to evacuate Madrid, permitting only those engaged in combat or public office to remain.

Those refusing to leave, the evacuation committee announced, "will be taken from their homes by designated authorities and removed."

Citizens were ordered to assemble at Garcia de Laredos street, designated the center of evacuation administration. To protect unoccupied homes against vandalism, Communists urged authorities to place a special watch.

As the defense junta pushed its evacuation plans, Madrid residents watched a spectacular aerial "dog fight" under cover of a thick mist that gave them relief from the Fascist shelling.

Battle in Air.

Government planes roared into the air to give battle to insurgent bombing planes after several projectiles had been loosed on the city. The aircraft dived in and out of thick, low-hanging clouds, their machine guns spitting steel, and the Fascist machines finally sped away.

The mist hid targets from insurgent gunners and there was comparative quiet until shortly before dark, when the defenders unlimbered some of their big guns, challenging the attackers to an artillery duel.

At Cerro de Los Angeles, 8 1/2 miles to the south, Socialist militiamen idled in their trenches on the side of the hill from which the town takes its name—"the Hill of Angels"—which the government troops renamed "Red Hill" after they nearly took it from the insurgents.

Play Football.

They made themselves reasonably comfortable, despite cold winds and rain. Some even played football near the entrenchments and others strummed guitars.

In southern Spain, Fascist planes bombed the port of Malaga, apparently in preparation for an attack on the city by a land force under General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, which has had the assistance of insurgent vessels in its drive from Algeciras.

which proposed revenue-raising legislation was discussed.

"No definite suggestion came from you," Mrs. Mankin replied.

Warning that "riots" will result unless the city's unemployed are cared for was thundered by W. E. Mitchell, welfare board member, who asked Hartsfield if he would sign favorably a council resolution to allocate to the board as much as $25,000 of the remaining $30,000 in the budget for emergency relief. The mayor replied he would.

He added that he would not appear any resolution implying that the city will spend more than its appropriation, however.

County Commissioner George F. Longins said the county is willing to match dollar for dollar the funds contributed by Atlanta and other municipalities in the county.

His proposal that Atlanta "save a quarter of a million dollars annually by getting on a cash basis" as the county operates, was made by County Commissioner Ed Albani. "The county made arrangements to buy for cash and get discounts and the city can too," he said. Hartsfield asked him to wait until tomorrow and let work that out.

Hartsfield Gives Views.

Pointing out that 85 per cent of the county's revenue comes from the city, Hartsfield said "relief in Atlanta should not be penalized by the city's inability to appropriate more money."

Representative William G. Hastings proposed that a special charity tax be imposed by the city with authority from the legislature, and he also said "show the people how desperately this revenue is needed."

He suggested that Hartsfield call a meeting of 500 or 1,000 of the largest taxpayers and "put the proposition up to them."

Representative Cicero Kendrick is asked for, "if it provides enough money for the city's needs, I won't support a bill to reduce the deficit unless means of raising a sufficient amount of current revenue is pushed along."

Mitchell, who is an official of the Georgia Power Company, and T. Barton Baird, official of Southern Bell Telephone Company, said in answer to questions by Hartsfield that their companies will be willing for taxes to be increased equitably.

The board of directors of the Community Chest implied the same in their resolution.

Kendrick and Mrs. Mankin called on the mayor and council to decide what legislation is wanted and to petition the legislators to get it passed. They said they would rush it through for immediate revenue.

Julian Boehm, a director of the Community Chest, proposed that the city place a $25,000 lien on automobiles as a means of increasing revenue.

Hartsfield told him the city cannot increase taxes without legislative authority.

Baird asked why tax assessments cannot be raised and the mayor replied that tax assessors report real estate tax valuations are now on the proper level.

Councilman John T. Marler said "council will pass a resolution asking needed legislation of the Fulton delegation" and pledged his support.

Proposals Considered.

Under consideration by the legislators are proposals to increase the city tax rate, hike water rates, increase sanitary fees and increase business license limitations.

The board of welfare has been allocated $75,000 by the city for 1937. $25,000 of the amount already having been turned over for January use.

Chairman J. Sid Tiller said the board cannot operate after January 21 without additional money from the city. He and others proposed council's allocation of half of its remaining $50,000 for February, hoping that the legislature will give the city authority to collect more revenue for relief within 60 or 90 days.

The pressing need for continued relief was emphasized by half a dozen speakers. Frank Miller, executive director of the welfare department, said 10,930 persons were on the relief rolls January 1, and have received only $423 per person for relief during the month. This is a cut of 10 per cent in the amount given in December.

Hartsfield pointed out that the city gave relief to the extent of $480,000 in 1935, and $382,000 in 1936. This money is still owed. He also explained the cuts in the city budget to the board.

A. Steve Nance, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, said council's action in voting to cut the relief appropriation 80 per cent from the 1936 figure was "the most brutal action ever taken by the city governing body." He said "this hits at those who can't protect themselves, the helpless unemployed."

Hartsfield, referring to the Community Chest directors' resolution, said the city is in desperate straits. "From now on, we will not spend money we haven't got and increase the deficit," he declared.

Mayor Hartsfield last night was named a member of the Fulton County Welfare Board, succeeding former Mayor James L. Key.

Directors of the Community Chest are Preston S. Arkwright, Julian V. Boehm, Legare Davis, Jackson P. Dick, W. Stanton Hale, Oliver M.

Cornelia Otis Skinner Marvelous In Presentation at Woman's Club

"The Wives of Henry VIII" as re-created by Cornelia Otis Skinner as only she, as we might say, can re-create, was seen last night by only too few Atlantans.

Presented before a capacity crowd in the Woman's Club auditorium, it seems to this reviewer a tragedy that an artist of Miss Skinner's ability cannot be enjoyed by more than the number able to crowd into this auditorium.

To those accustomed only to Miss Skinner's modern light and amusing monologues, her more pretentious play must have been disconcerting. Or so it seemed, to judge from the restlessness of a certain portion of the audience, which made it extremely difficult for the remainder to enjoy her performance fully.

The first section of her program was composed of three of the modern type monologues. The first was of scenes occurring in many, many homes

Christmas morning. In the second, Miss Skinner portrayed four characters, the scene being a fifth avenue "shoppe" catering to women paying for clothes and service. The third was a Boston Indian telling the club "girls" all about Indians. ("After the Hopi proverb.")

Good as Miss Skinner can be in her by now traditional field, her portrayals of the wives of Henry VIII far transcended the lighter material of the first portion of the program. Particularly good was the scene in which she played the part of Anne Boleyn immediately before Boleyn's death.

Also outstanding was her creation (there's that word again) of Anne of Cleves, and the final scene at Henry's deathbed as Katherine Parr. Catharine of Aragon was partly lost because of a noisy resettling of the audience following the intermission.

But it does seem a pity that more could not have heard Miss Skinner.

deal to such delegations that they secure the passage of the necessary legislation to meet this deplorable condition, the gravity of which can not be overestimated and for which there can be no excuse in a community having our resources."

ANTI-STRIKE METHODS IN METAL MILLS BARED

Senators Told of Employers' Association and $200,000 'War Chest.'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(P)—The senate civil liberties committee added to its record today the story of a strike-breaking and strike-prevention service for 900 metal manufacturing plants.

With officials of the National Metal Trades Association on the witness stand, Chairman La Follette, Progressive Wisconsin, drew forth testimony and documentary evidence to show that:

The association, a co-operative group of employers, supplies labor spies to its members on request.

It provides strike breakers and strike guards when "trouble arises."

That in one instance 16 of 42 strike guards, supplied through a detective agency, had criminal records ranging from rape to robbery and shooting to death.

That the association takes exclusive control of the determination of measures used to combat a strike; the management of the plant involved agrees to make no settlement with the strikers except with the approval of the association.

That the association has what La Follette called a "war chest" of $200,000, untaxed, and constantly replenished by dues payments of 20 cents monthly per worker employed in the member plants.

That upon the passage of the Byrnes law forbidding the transportation of strike breakers across state lines, the association established a recruiting office in each of several states.

Rome Tugboat's History Excites Registry Office

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 21.—(P)—The "Annie M." a steam tugboat built in 1888, isn't what she used to be, craft registry clerks agreed today after thumbing through 50 pages of correspondence exchanged in an effort to uncover all her past.

Hugh E. Green, of Rome, present owner of the river veteran, filed papers to relist his boat in accordance with federal regulations.

Clerks pored over the original document registering the "Annie M." when she emerged from the Mobile plant of the Galveston Iron Company and noted her description. They studied the specifications of the "Annie M." of today and found but little agreement in the described vessels.

But the boat's past may account for her new lines.

She was abandoned three years after being built, was reclaimed by United States army engineers, re-modeled and named the "Leota."

After extensive use, the "Leota" was left above the dam built across the Oostanaula river at Rome, so the government decided to sell it.

The name was changed back to the "Annie M." and Green bought her. But whether it's the "Annie M." of 1888 is something registry clerks are still trying to settle.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

'More Than Secretary' Held Over at Rialto

Patrons of the Rialto theater have again forced Manager W. T. Murray to extend the engagement of his feature attraction, "More Than a Secretary," with Jean Arthur, Lionel Stander, George Brent and Ruth Donnelly, has drawn capacity crowds so continuously during the past week it will be held over for a second week, beginning today.

Another of those modern, romantic comedies at which the Columbia studios are so adept, "More Than a Secretary" tells a story of business office romance combined with humor that keeps every audience in smiles and guffaws throughout the film.

There are many surprise developments to the plot, the biggest of all coming at the climax, leaving a despondent that is so different and so pleasing that everyone leaves the theater wearing a wide grin of pleasure.

Miss Arthur plays the part of the secretary to George Brent, editor of a health magazine, while Lionel Stander is at his funniest and best as a teacher of physical culture. Ruth Donnelly is the operator of an employment agency for office workers.

A new collection of unusually good subject matter will be offered for the second week of "More Than a Secretary," a week which ends next Thursday night.

Charlie Chan Picture Is Booked for Capitol

The Capitol's big triple program now being offered will run through Saturday. This includes the stage show, "Parisian Follies," the main feature, "Heart of the West," starring William Boyd, and the special added attraction, "You Can't Get Away With It."

While the Capitol's stage unit and feature is very entertaining, main interest at the theater this week seems to center about the short subject, "You Can't Get Away With It," which shows for the first time actual pictures of J. Edgar Hoover and his G-men in action and behind the scenes.

This unusual offering runs 30 minutes, and is presented on each program.

Starting Sunday the Capitol will make a complete change in its stage and screen program. The new feature will be "Charlie Chan at the Opera," starring Warner Oland as Chan and Boris Karloff as the villain.

This is the first time Oland and Karloff have appeared together in a film. Plenty of excitement and many thrills can be expected.

"Studio Scandals," with a cast of 25 stage and radio stars, is the new vaudeville unit which the management has selected to go with "Chan at the Opera."

'Beloved Enemy' Stars Noted Pair at Grand

The pulsating romance of a man and woman from two warring worlds who risked their lives for love amid intrigue and bloodshed provides the theme of "Beloved Enemy," Samuel Goldwyn's thrilling new screen drama which stars Merle Oberon and Brian Aherne at Loew's Grand theater beginning today.

Merle Oberon has her greatest role to date as Lady Helen Drummond, the lovely English girl who accompanies her father, Lord Athleigh, an emissary of parliament.

Aherne is seen as Dennis Riordan, the daring, dashing young Irishman who is the secret leader of the revolt and whom all the strategy of the British has failed to trap.

The two fall madly in love and the story depicts how the girl is torn between her duty to her country and her devotion to this handsome, hunted fellow and how she risks her life to intercede for the man she loves and the cause she is sworn to oppose.

An imposing cast, featuring Karen Morley, Henry Stephenson, Jerome Cowan, noted Broadway stage star, and David Niven supports the stars. Others prominent in the cast are Donald Crisp, Ray Hoold, sensational new child actor, Pat O'Malley, Jack Mulhall, Wyndham Standing, David Torrence and Theodore Von Eltz. The film is released through United Artists.

'One In a Million' Stars Sonja Henie at the Fox

With Sonja Henie, queen of the silvery skates, executing dazzling dances on crystal ice and romancing with Don Ameche; Adolph Menjou giving another hilarious performance; Jean Hersholt more lovable than ever; Ned Sparks deadpanning his way to new laugh highs; the Ritz Brothers running amok; Arline Judge cute, captivating and comical; Borrah Minevitch and his gang playing hot rhythms on their harmonicas; and Dixie Dunbar, Leah Ray and Shirley Deane contributing beauty and hi-de-ho, "One in a Million," the Twentieth Century Century spectacular musical smash, comes today to the Fox theater.

Set in a brilliant new world of delicious thrills, "One in a Million" tells a story of love nursing on snow, sprinkled with fun, roaring as an open fire, with songs you'll remember as the year's big hits.

The plot of sparkling Sonja's first screen triumph has to do with troupe of American entertainers, including the Ritz Brothers, Arline Judge, Borrah Minevitch, Dixie Dunbar and Leah Ray in straightened circumstances, who are traveling Europe under the wing of their ebullient manager, Ted Spencer (Adolph Menjou).

The troupe arrives at a Swiss resort, where they were to have put on a performance, but find that the hotel has burned down. Installing themselves in a little lodging house, Menjou discovers a marvellously gifted amateur ice skater in the person of beautiful little Greta, the innkeeper's daughter (Sonja Henie), who is being trained by her father (Jean Hersholt) to win the Olympic figure skating championship, which he once held, but which was taken from him on false charges of professionalism.

The knowledge reaches his wife she institutes a city-wide search for her missing spouse with the aid of the police department.

'Three Men On a Horse' For Paramount Today

First National's mirth-provoking epic, "Three Men on a Horse," co-starring Frank McHugh and Joan Blondell, with a strong supporting cast, appears at the Paramount theater beginning today.

"Three Men on a Horse" is the hilarious story of Erwin, a meek writer of greeting card verse, who has the uncanny knack of picking horse racing winners. Closely guarding this secret trait, he jots down his selections and invested winnings in a little book. The book is discovered by his nagging wife, who at once denounces Erwin as a philanderer.

In the midst of this domestic tangle the boss orders him to produce 50 greeting card verses before the noon lunch hour. Being more than he can stand at one time, Erwin retires to a gin mill to drown his troubles in booze. There he finds his great adventure.

Overhearing three touts discussing horses on coming races Erwin timidly offers a tip. Laughing at him they bet on the favorite, who loses. Realizing that the little fellow is somehow "in the know," he is kidnapped by the trio and imprisoned. They phone his employer he has suddenly suffered an attack of severe illness and when

LINT SHIPPERS' CHIEF ATTACKS CO-OPERATIVE

Williams Angered by Proposal That Private Firms Be Investigated.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—(P)—Ben J. Williams, president of the Southern Cotton Shippers' Association, launched an attack against the American Cotton Co-operative Association here tonight, charging it "stands revealed as a government-financed cotton firm, controlled by an inter-related oligarchy of officials drawing high salaries."

Williams said his statement was prompted by a resolution adopted by Co-operative Association leaders yesterday that any further investigation of cotton marketing include private cotton firms and cotton exchanges.

Williams asserted statements "made by co-operative officials are in the nature of generalities which are in direct conflict with the facts developed by the McKellar hearing in Memphis in 1935."

Taking up the co-operative announcements this week point by point Williams said:

"The statement that cotton merchants were active in opposing the efforts of the co-operatives to secure reduced freight rates is contrary to the truth."

Williams charged that only in one season, the 1933-1934 period, did farmers receive in cash one-fifth of the profits which A. C. C. A. claims to have made during its six years' existence.

"The executives of the co-operatives seem to forget private dealers risk their own capital while the entire capital of the A. C. C. A. except for $22,500 has been derived from direct loans from the government and from profits of re-lending government money to the farmer at higher rates of interest."

Williams said the co-operatives also enjoyed a "nice little monopoly in the handling of government-owned or controlled cotton, a little 'sideline' that netted them the modest fee of more than $3,800,000 over a period of five years."

The Child Welfare Association of Fulton and DeKalb counties yesterday elected Mrs. C. E. Harrison president for 1937 at the annual meeting. She succeeds Dr. Robert W. Burns.

Mrs. Frank Neely, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Elsas, secretary; Richard Dean, treasurer and Mrs. A. S. Grote, corresponding secretary, were other officers named. Mrs. C. E. Harrison, Mrs. Frank Neely, Mrs. Paul Potter, Mrs. D. R. Paige, Mrs. L. K. Starr and J. P. Jones were re-elected to serve on the board of directors for three-year terms.

Novel Punishment Meted Drunk Driver

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Jan. 21. (UP)—John Kiley, 37, tonight promised he would never drive while drunk again.

Convicted for a second time, he was ordered to copy in longhand once a month for the next year the 2,200-word article, "—And Sudden Death," which describes how bodies are crushed in auto accidents.

Agnes Scott, addressed the meeting on "Child Welfare Needs of Georgia," and Mrs. Perrin Nicolson Jr. submitted the report of the health and medical committee.

Drs. Amy Chappell, William Kiser and Henry R. Butler presented reports of the three clinics held at the Child Welfare Association.

"It is a privilege to watch and guide, even slightly, the physical improvement which occurs in most of these children," said Dr. Chappell. "To see hollow cheeks grow plump and the weary droop of thin little shoulders replaced by the energy of healthy childhood is satisfying. To work with these children must ever be a precious opportunity for all of us who come in contact with them."

Committee reports revealed that during 1936, 622 children were cared for and 4,313 new articles of clothing were supplied, along with 562 used articles. Income for the year was $32,627.87 compared with expenditures of $35,594.57.

The association was formed to care for destitute and abandoned children and to provide the type of care best suited to the individual child. Clinics are held twice a week by the association.

Wife of Man Under Death Sentence Has Right to Remarry, Court Rules

Judges Rule Husband Cannot Obtain Annulment of Marriage on Grounds Wife Had Husband Living When She Wedded Him.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 21. (AP)—The wife of a man under sentence of death has the legal right to remarry, the appellate division ruled today, on the grounds that such a man is already dead under common law.

In a unanimous decision, the court said that the woman's second husband cannot obtain an annulment of their marriage on the grounds that his wife already had a husband living when she married him. He stipulated that he knew of the death sentence at the time of the marriage.

Referee Hinman agreed with the contention of Jones' attorney, Randall H. Gillett, that a man sentenced to life imprisonment is legally dead, but that the law makes no provision for a man sentenced to die.

Montgomery was sentenced to die June 14, 1923, but three days before the date of the execution his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Today he is free on parole.

Mrs. Montgomery meanwhile married Jones in Rensselaer, N. Y., May 26, 1925. The Jones lived together until 1935, when the husband sought an annulment on the grounds that his wife had a husband living when he married her.

The appellate division handed down this ruling in reversing Referee Harold J. Hinman's decision annulling the marriage of Harry P. Jones, of Albany, to Nellie C. Jones, Mrs. Jones previously was the wife of Clyde P. Montgomery, sentenced to death in North Carolina in 1922.

cast. The Mississippi edged up hourly.

Cincinnati calculated its losses at $1,000,000. The warehouse and provisions district was inundated. Police received more than 500 calls for boats and trucks. Residents were warned the Ohio might crest there at 66 to 68 feet far above the 52-foot flood stage. Only twice in recorded history has the stream passed the 66 feet mark.

Families Trapped.

Calls for help sent hundreds of boats to the aid of families trapped along the Ohio upstream from Cincinnati. More than six feet of water lapped in the streets of Pomeroy. Most of the homes in Ripley and Manchester were encircled by water. New Richmond, Higginsport, Rome and Newtown were seriously affected.

At Newport, Ky., 50 city blocks were submerged and six steel mills suspended operations. At Dayton, water covered 30 blocks.

Residents of Hazleton, Ind., gathered on knolls to see waters of the White river flowing through homes and buildings they had quit before the levee collapsed. Six persons who fled from Cannelton and Tell City termed the flood the worst in their experience. Part of Richmond was inundated. The Ohio backed into stores and homes at Aurora. Engineers feared levees near Vincennes would not hold. The Ohio lifted over the 45-foot level at Evansville.

Streams were on the upsurge in 10 states—Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Illinois, Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and North Carolina.

Pittsburgh—in the path of the $300,000,000 floods last March—prepared for a rise of six feet over the 25-foot flood stage at the junction

Thousands of persons stood in a downpour that ranged from one to more than three inches and watched the advance of water in the middle and lower Ohio river valley—called the worst since the disastrous 1913 flood.

At some points business and industry was at a standstill. Householders and merchants moved their goods to upper floors. Trucks hauled valuable stock to the hills. Transportation was crippled.

Refugees Seek Shelter.

Bedraggled refugees—many of them had seen icy waters creep to the eaves of their dwellings—sought shelter in schools, box cars, tents, halls and public buildings.

The overburdened Ohio, swelled steadily from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill. But the worst, meteorologists warned, was yet to come. More rain, turning to snow as temperatures fell, was fore-

RAILWAYS TO PRESENT SOLID FRONT ON WAGES

Brotherhoods' Demand for 20 Pct. Raise Viewed as Threat to Recovery.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Eastern railroads will present a solid front in fighting demands of the five major railway labor unions for a 20 per cent wage increase, it was indicated today in carrier circles.

Management of the big trunk lines and the smaller systems alike were said to view the bid for higher wages as a serious threat to railway recovery, now in good stride after nearly five years of acute depression.

Executives generally declined to be quoted in the absence of more complete information on the proposed demands of the brotherhoods, but some expressed belief the majority of roads could not prudently grant any wage increases unless their revenues showed a substantial increase.

Railroad statistics quarters estimated a 20 per cent wage boost for workers in the five unions would add $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually to the wage accounts of some of the larger roads. The demands, it was contended, would exceed the 1936 net incomes of many carriers.

Under terms of the railway labor act, the railroads within 30 days after the filing of notice of wage demands by the unions must set a time and place for meeting the brotherhood leaders for the opening of wage negotiations. If no agreement can be reached the question is then referred to the railway labor board for adjudication.

OPERATION IS FUTILE, STRICKEN MINER DIES

OKANOGAN, Wash., Jan. 21. (AP)—Fred White, 25, miner, died tonight a few hours after he was operated upon for appendicitis by the doctor who directed his removal through deep snow from the Azurite mine 8,000 feet up in the Cascade mountains.

Hospital attendants said White came from under the anesthetic after Dr. E. P. Murdoch operated, but the 60-mile journey by dog team, bobbed and automobile from the mine to the hospital had so weakened him he could not withstand the shock.

$225 LOOT IS TAKEN FROM TRUCK, HOME

Police reports last night revealed theft of clothing from a laundry truck and jewelry from a residence.

Solomon Bookbinder, of 924 King's court, driver for the Royal Laundry, 224 Ponce de Leon avenue, told police thieves broke into a truck parked on Rawson street, at Capitol avenue, and fled with clothing valued at $75.

Hearing the crash of glass in the rear of his home at 55 Milton avenue, S. E., M. J. Moore investigated and found a thief had broken a window with a brick and had snatched from a table jewelry valued at $150.

BRITISH SHUN SOUTH AFRICA.

Only 454 of 3,450 immigrants who swelled South Africa's population during the first half of 1936 were British. This fact was referred to and deplored in the report of the 1920 Memorial Settlers' association presented at the annual meeting here.

INSTALLMENT V.

At this juncture the housekeeper stuck a disapproving face in at the door to remind them that the small table, Diana noticed that her mother's expression was troubled and evasive. Again she experienced the dim sense of disturbance which the sight of Nicholas Blundell's face had given her.

"It was stroke, I suppose," she asked tentatively.

Wariness leaped into the brown eyes. Margaret was alert, on guard.

"Why do you ask that? O, I see, it was the letter I wrote you. Yes, it was stroke. At least—well, Nick does seem to be brooding a trifle, but—"

"Because—and I was struck by this, too—Rose's own doctor, Sir Eustace Milford, never saw her at all. He was in Bournemouth, nursing a septic throat. It was his partner, Dr. Cross, who came. O, a good man, undoubtedly, but—well, the end came so quickly, and her tongue being paralyzed she was never able to tell them just how she felt. It may have made no difference to the diagnosis, and then again—"

Why did Margaret falter, only to start off on a seemingly irrelevant tangent? Diana herself was beginning to feel vaguely curious about what, when all was said, could not be very important. Rose Somervell was dead, laid to rest in a quiet Berkshire churchyard. Discussion now would not make the cause of her death one whit the clearer, nor was it likely that Sir Eustace Milford—familiar with the aristocracy, but a joke amongst his medical confreres—would have seen what his partner missed.

Diana gave absent attention to her companion's rambling discourse, while her inner consciousness strayed restlessly in a region wherein illness and death played negligible parts. Presently a name caught her ear.

"Patty?" she repeated.

"Were you saying about her?" "What was just wondering," continued Margaret, "if Patty was telling me the truth when she declared no one was with her in the kitchen? I could have sworn there was, but why should she lie about it?"

"I can't imagine. What happened?" "It was like this: The flat door was open, so thinking Patty had just slipped downstairs for a moment, I walked straight in. I was in the drawing room, looking down at a scorched spot on the rug and realizing that here was where poor Rose must have dropped her cigarette when she fell, when all at once I heard Patty speaking, quite agitatedly—or so I thought. All I caught was something about Mr. Blundell's wanting a consultation, only there hadn't been time, but I certainly got the impression she was protesting or arguing. Not wanting to be found eavesdropping, I called out that it was me, Mrs. Lake, and then marched through to the kitchen."

"And—?" prompted Diana.

"O, Patty was quite alone! Swore she was talking to herself—but she seemed so hot and flustered when she

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

Eating breakfast in bed is a swell idea. It is, in fact, one of those ideas which we have always thought must have emanated from some great mind, like Socrates. But some of the most interesting ideas, we've found, are completely unworkable. And eating breakfast in bed is one of them.

At least, it's unworkable as far as we're concerned. How, we'd like to know, do you balance a tray on your knees, crack an egg, butter toast and eat, all at the same time? How, we ask, can you keep from spilling coffee on the hemstitched sheets your mother gave you last Christmas? And what prevents the crumbs from scratching up your pretty throat line?

We can't figure it out. Of course, we know the usual answer. That is to buy yourself a little bed table that sits on stilts. And we think that's splendid, except for two things. It still doesn't take care of the crumbs that drop between you and the table. And it isn't a speck of good to the world, where live alone and like it and try to fix their own breakfast in bed. Because it's awfully hard to crawl in under a bed table.

Unless you maid service, we think that probably the best thing to do is to put the tray on the bed and sit on the floor.

V-STORIES AND SONGS
Along with their heavy work, lumberjacks have many hours to spend in play of one kind or another. At some times they toil from dawn to dusk, but winter days are short and there are long evenings to use for amusement. The men play cards and other games. They sing songs, and tell stories about Paul Bunyan, the famous lumberjack hero of legend.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle.

Stories about Paul Bunyan have been told for close to a hundred years. Some say the stories grew from the life of a real person, a mighty-muscled, bearded giant who lived in northern Ontario.

The Bunyan stories have grown until they are a long distance past belief. One tale tells how Bunyan was given the task of taking the logs from the states now called North and South Dakota, and did the work "by hauling a section of land at a time to the landing place with the help of the Big Blue Ox." The Big Blue Ox had the special name of "Babe," and legend says he "measured 42 oxhides and a plug of chewing tobacco between the horns."

Such stories may seem silly to others, but they have given the woodsmen something to talk about.

DIXIE RADIO PIONEER, HARRY WILLS, PASSES

Nationally Noted Electrical Engineer Was Builder of Constitution Station.

Harry LaVaque Wills, nationally known electrical engineer and builder of the first radio transmitting and receiving station in this part of the country, died yesterday at his residence, 598 Clifton road, N. E. He would have been 70 years old next month.

After gaining wide experience in electrical engineering and mechanics in several northern and eastern cities, Mr. Wills was employed by the Georgia Railway & Power Company in 1902 as meter tester. The following year he was placed in charge of the meter shop.

He was promoted to chief electrical engineer of the company in 1919 and had charge of all street railway and steam heating work as well as electrical engineering projects. In 1920 he was made operating manager of the company and in 1922 was again promoted to assistant to the vice president and general manager, jointly carrying on the work of electrical coordination.

Radio Pioneer.
Mr. Wills built the first radio transmitting and receiving station in this section shortly before the World War. When the United States entered the war, the government took over the private station. Shortly after the war, the electrical engineer built a radio station atop the Electric building and this station, leased to The Constitution, became the first newspaper radio station in the southeast.

During his life-time he served as chairman of the national committee for inductive co-ordination, which had charge of problems arising from the proximity of high-tension power

$400 Liquor Check Sends Man to Jail

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 21.—(P)—Into a local liquor dispensary last night walked a gentleman with an unquenchable thirst. "Give me $400.00 worth of liquor," he said.

The clerk packaged the supply, wrote down the gentleman's address, and sent the liquor to his residence. The buyer hastily wrote out a check—$400.00 worth—and handed it to the clerk.

Detective J. B. King, standing nearby, picked up the gentleman on suspicion and lodged him in city jail. Police said he gave his name as W. M. Langston, of Birmingham, Ala.

Today three warrants charging issuance of worthless checks stood against him, officers said.

He was a member of two radio conferences called by President Hoover and was appointed by the President to the legislative committee which drafted the national laws governing radio broadcasting.

Held High National Posts.
He was a member of the executive council of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors and held many other national and sectional offices in electrical and engineering bodies.

Mr. Wills was an Episcopalian, a member of the Atlanta Lodge No. 59, F. & A. M.; member of the York Rite, Scottish Rite and Shrine and had been a member of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, serving as engineering council and as consultant with the committee on smoke prevention.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Frank Whitaker, of Rome, Ga.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill, with Dr. W. W. Memminger officiating.

Chicago Pickpockets Have Pockets Picked

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(P)—"It was a sort of merry-go-round robbery," Albert L. Arentsen told the police today.

Arentsen, a milk wagon driver, said two negroes held him up with pistols. One robber relieved him of $300. While the robber was digging through Arentsen's pockets, the milkman picked the robber's pocket, retrieving the $300.

The second holdup artist, however, picked Arentsen's pocket again. One of them dropped a quarter. "You can keep that," they said, as they locked him in the wagon and fled.

HALF-MILLION INCOME GIVEN LOCAL CHARITY

tion which was holding up disposal of the Whitehead fortune according to the terms of the will when she accepted Judge E. D. Thomas' order directing payment to her of $500,000 as sole heir of the estate and the payment of $200,000 to straighten out the settlement that Whitehead had made with her in 1932. She collects $40,000 immediately and the balance in eight months.

The $10,000,000 fortune that Whitehead left behind him will be administered as a charity fund by the foundation, the trustees being Mrs. Lettie P. Evans, Whitehead's mother; his brother, Conkey P. Whitehead, and the Citizens and Southern bank, executors of the estate.

For Atlanta and Environs.
Selection of the charities to benefit under the terms of Whitehead's will are left to these trustees, but the money, it was said yesterday, will be spent "in Atlanta and its immediate environs."

The $10,000,000 fortune was inherited by Whitehead from his father, Joseph P. Whitehead Sr. It represents approximately one-third of the estate left by the elder Whitehead when he died about 20 years ago, after building through hard labor and keen foresight, one of the most spectacular fortunes accumulated in the south.

In 1900, Joseph B. Whitehead Sr. was a young lawyer in Chattanooga, Tenn. He and a close friend, Carter Lupton, also of Chattanooga, became interested in the possibilities of the new soft drink, Coca-Cola, which was then being introduced into the southern market.

Coca-Cola was then being bottled by the late Asa G. Candler Sr., but its market was limited. Whitehead and Lupton visioned the possibilities of profits from wider distribution, came to Atlanta and with the investment of a comparatively few thousand dollars, obtained from Candler the bottling rights for vast areas, approximately more than half the United States.

Had Faith in Product.
Whitehead and Lupton had faith in their gamble and they acquired more thousands of dollars and promoted their product intensively. They worked hard, traveled extensively, always opening new markets for the new drink. They gathered more thousands of dollars and promoted the bottling of other soft drinks but always, they pointed at the distribution of Coca-Cola because they felt that it would be most universally accepted.

When Whitehead died, he left a comfortable personal fortune but most of his money was tied up in the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, which he had been persistently pyramiding, using his new capital to open up new fields as he continued steady investments for the building of a tremendous enterprise. It has been said that in spite of his enthusiasm and sound business judgment, he had no idea that his foresight would build the gigantic business that flourishes today largely because of his vision.

When he died, his fortune was split among his widow, now Mrs. Lettie P. Evans, and his two sons, Joseph B. Jr. and Conkey.

Young Joseph Whitehead maintained his home in Atlanta after obtaining his share of the estate, but spent most of his time in travel. He lived abroad for months at a time and was seen rarely in Atlanta.

In July, 1935, he made the will that will mean the establishment of his huge charity in Atlanta and four months later he died.

Excerpts From Will.
Some excerpts from his will are: "I have no near relatives except my mother and my brother and they are amply provided for..." "I have been married twice and have also provided for my wives heretofore by contract. I direct that the contract with my wife, Marjorie Cassidy Whitehead, which was dated on or about March 22, 1928, be complied with by my executors herein appointed and by the trustees of the Joseph B. Whitehead Foundation, which I direct herein to be formed. I also direct that the separation agreement with my wife, Laura Graves Whitehead, and myself be carried out and

QUADS NEAR HOSPITAL IN RACE WITH DEATH

MONTREAL, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Prematurely born quadruplets—two boys and two girls—were being rushed by ambulance from St. Thomas, a nearby village, to the St. Justine hospital here tonight.

The four babies were born to Mrs. Arcade Rondeau, a farmer's wife already the mother of 10 children. They reportedly were in a grave condition.

Government officials ordered the babies rushed to Montreal after Dr. J. E. Forest, of Joliette, who attended Mrs. Rondeau, declared they had little chance of surviving because of lack of necessary equipment in the district.

A burglar alarm that can be built to retail at one dollar is now in the process of production.

UNAUTHORIZED PAINT ON ATLANTA'S CURBS PROBED BY HORNSBY

Two Sections of Non-Parking Area Found After Court Protest.

Investigation of unauthorized yellow curbs in Atlanta was launched yesterday by Acting Chief M. A. Hornsby after Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the police committee, reported he was informed there are "blocks and blocks" of painted curbs which are prohibited parking areas by ordinance.

With the probe only a few hours old, Chief Hornsby said two painted curbs, one on Broad street and the other on Hunter in the downtown area, which are not authorized by council, had been discovered.

"We are sending out men removing the yellow paint on such places just as fast as we can find them," Chief Hornsby said.

Alderman Bridges said he had asked the chief to make cases against those persons who had curbs painted yellow without the authority of city council. The investigation resulted from facts brought out in a case in recorder's court yesterday, when a motorist received a ticket for parking on a yellow curb which a sign was posted also, allowing one-hour parking. The case was dismissed.

"Such things as one hour parking signs on yellow curbs, which mean no parking at any time, are confusing to the public," Hornsby said. "These things will be eliminated as rapidly as possible."

The new investigation followed policies of the administration toward a better regulation of traffic. Chief Hornsby and Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic department, have already issued orders that no traffic tickets will be "fixed" in the future. This action yesterday was commended by the West End Business Men's Association, which adopted a resolution praising the vigorous efforts of city officials to stamp out all ticket fixing. The organization also endorsed the general policy of Mayor Hartford and the city council in striving for a more efficient and businesslike city government.

MOULTRIE WILL OPEN LIVESTOCK PAVILION

Big Building Program Generally Noted Last Year In City.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Georgia's first livestock sales and show pavilion has been completed and will be opened formally to the public at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The auditorium, built amphitheater style with a seating capacity of 500, was erected by Swift & Company, and it is to be used for all farm advancement projects sponsored by the Moultrie Chamber of Commerce.

It is equipped with electric lights, judge's stand, stock pens and speaker's stand. H. McDowell, manager of the local packing plant, in a brief address, will dedicate the building to the "advancement of the livestock industry in the southeast."

The opening event will be a sale of purebred hogs and hogs, in which John J. Cummings, of Seminole Farms, Donaldsonville, will offer a lot of Poland-China hogs and Hereford hogs and heifers. The sale is to begin at 1 p. m.

In addition to a number of prominent Georgia livestock raisers, some of the leading western Poland-China breeders will be present.

The new auditorium, according to livestock authorities, is the first to be constructed in Georgia, Alabama and Florida. It will be utilized for the Moultrie fat cattle show scheduled for April 27-28, which brings together the best livestock exhibits from all sections of the state, particularly southwest Georgia.

County Agent W. D. Hillis and members of the local chamber of commerce said opening of the livestock pavilion "marks another great progressive step in advancement of the livestock industry in Georgia."

There are six different types of shoes for various occasions that should be in the spring wardrobe of every man who makes any pretense at all of dressing correctly. The shoe wardrobe, as outlined in this space last fall, requires certain modifications and changes in order to make it acceptable for the spring (and, later on, the summer) season. In this color-

Spring Shoe Wardrobe Serves Style, Economy

The Right Shoe for the Right Suit Is an Essential of Good Dressing—There Are Six Basic Types, From Business Wear Through Evening Wear to Sportswear.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD,
Editor Men's Fashions.

The right ensemble for the occasion must include, of course, the correct shoe. Most men are style-conscious enough to realize that wearing a sports ensemble to business is outside the pale of accepted taste; not enough, however, are aware that wearing the proper business shoe in reverse calf is far and away the leading style. The leading model

Driving Club To Be Converted Into Night Club After 'Follies'

By Sally Forth.

ONE thing is certain about the Junior League Follies next week. It will be a sensation in any language. The newest angle to the affair is the cabaret at the Driving Club, to follow the premier performance on January 29. When people get "all dressed up and ready to go places," after they have laughed through 28 scenes of the musical extravaganza, they will have a definite place to assemble to "ooh and aah" about the Follies.

The Junior Leaguers have decided to convert the Piedmont Driving Club ballroom into a gay and festive night club, and to stage a cabaret that will surpass all others given in Atlanta. Hortense Adams Boston, past master in the art of arranging such affairs, will be in charge of the cabaret, and helping her will be Ruth Carter, Helen Willis and Betsy Holland. Small tables will fringe the edge of the ballroom in night-club fashion, and the festive spirit will be expressed in the decorations carrying out the coronation theme of the Follies.

There will be dancing for those who can find time between the floor show and other grand entertainment that will take place far into the night. Some of the features of the floor show will be special numbers from the Follies and others will be especially arranged for the cabaret.

There won't be anything staid about the whole affair. Even the customary matter of making reservations is being dispensed with and it will be one of those parties where you "just come." From the present rumors about all the things being planned it looks to Sally like the cabaret is going to be a repetition of that glorious evening last spring when the Junior League gave its coronation ball.

they discussed whether to dress for dinner. Mr. Harrington took the negative side of the question and insisted that their business suits would be considered quite proper. But Mr. Oliver, noted for his sartorial perfection, was equally as insistent that they should wear formal dress to the dining room.

Mr. Oliver won the argument. An hour later they entered the handsome dining room attired in regulation dinner jacket. The head waiter escorted them through the spacious room into a very small adjoining room and seated them in an obscure place. Before the Atlantans could gather their wits, so to speak, the waiter disappeared.

Mr. Harrington and Mr. Oliver were mad as wet hens when the waiter came to take their dinner order. They demanded that the head waiter be brought before them to be questioned. When he appeared, Mr. Harrington said:

"Why did you seat us in such a dinky place, when there is plenty of room in the large dining room?"

"I had my orders to seat the members of the newly arrived New York orchestra in this room," meekly replied the head waiter.

JANUARY 31 will be a red letter day in one of the leading Atlanta families, for on that date two very important announcements will be made which will be of widespread interest. A brother and a sister will formally reveal their engagements, the former to a popular Atlanta belle and the latter to a young man, who, though not a native Atlantan, has resided here for some time.

The marriages are scheduled for an early date, but the sister will wed before her brother, inasmuch as her fiancé has received a splendid promotion in his chosen work and will leave soon for his new home in the far north. Absence may make the heart grow fonder, but the young man could not see it in the light of leaving his charming lady love, and within the last few days he persuaded her to say "yes."

Rich's Second Floor

Hollywood Today

BY SHEILAH GRAHAM.
—Bill Daniels, Camera King—
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—You can rob a film actress of practically anything—story, director, leading man or what-have-you—but try to take away her favorite cameraman! Well, you had better not, that's all.
Most favored of all the camera kings in Hollywood is Bill Daniels, friend and photographer of the Garbo he made glamorous in 26 pictures during the last ten years.
"You can do anything you want with Garbo," he told your correspondent. "To me, she is the most beautiful woman in pictures. Perhaps I'm prejudiced, I'm so fond of her. So she is a better photographer with me. She has changed a great deal since I first photographed her in 'The Torrent'. Then she was so shy and frightened of everybody. She couldn't speak English and had to have an interpreter. But not with me. It is easy to make a woman understand what she must do to look beautiful. Her face is a better photographic subject now. She is happier than she was. She likes working. She likes being on the set. Experience has given depth to her eyes—which, incidentally, are her best features."
According to Daniels, beautiful eyes are the most important asset for a movie actress—from a photographic viewpoint. A good complexion is next on the list of "must haves." Jean Harlow, for whom Daniels is now supervising camera work in "The Man in Possession," has both, and, as a result, requires very little makeup for film work.

"I believe in putting the stars on the screen as they really are," said Daniels, "and then glorifying them. It is better to keep them simple and clean looking. They have a personality, or they wouldn't be in pictures. I try to bring this out on the screen."
The best results are achieved—as per the Daniels method—by avoiding all flat and dull light, with as little of the latter as possible, on the face of the star.

Lillian Mae Patterns

The squeeze was more or less ordinary, except for the splendid precaution the dealer had taken in naming the club suit. It should be noted that a lead up to the club queen (as is customary) would be fatal in this case. East would win, and his proper return would be a spade. West's spade ace thus removed prematurely, the squeeze would vanish.

Question: What is the next major tournament?

Answer: The Atlantic National in New York next week.

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

RESPONSES TO FORCING TWO-BIDS.

The success of the forcing two-bid depends largely upon correct responses. The responses to a forcing two-bid are:

Pass—Barred in all situations except when the intervening opponent overcalls, in which case, pass is proper if holding less than one honor trick.

If the bidding is:

South West North East

2 hearts 2 spades 2 no trump

North, for his free two no trump response, must have about one-plus or one and one-half honor tricks, including a spade a-pier:

♠ K 10 8 9 5 ♦ Q 6 4 2 ♣ Q 10 5 3

With a weak hand, North could pass, for South already is assured another chance to bid.

The fact that, due to an opponent's overcall, the responder may and does pass on the first round, in no way relieves either the opener or the responder from the obligation subsequently to keep the bidding open until game or its penalty equivalent is reached.

TODAY'S HAND.

The bidding:

South West North East

1 diamond 1 heart 2 spades Pass

2 diamonds Pass 5 diamonds Pass

6 diamonds Pass Pass Pass

North's two spade jump overall was an atrocious bid, judged from any angle. Not only did he lack genius as a close player, but he was out at which to shudder. His best bid on the first round would have been three diamonds, with two no trump rank as a close alternative. But blissfully aware that he already had overbid his hand by a wide margin, he completed the bad work with another jump at his opponent's mercy.

West opened the heart king and the dummy went down, declarer was shocked to the core. A club and a spade loser appeared almost inevitable. There was, however, the queen of clubs, and declarer promptly grasped it. He won with dummy's heart ace, and led the queen of clubs. East covered, the ace won, and a low club was led back to the queen. To the declarer's relief, West won this trick.

West felt positive that it would be fatal to lay down the heart queen, hence shifted to a trump. Declarer, certain of his own position, returned with a trump, ruffed the last club. He regained the lead by ruffing dummy's seven of hearts, and then led out every trump. With three cards remaining (his own were the queen of spades and a trump; West's were the king of spades and king of hearts; East's did not matter; dummy held the ace of spades and the jack of hearts), the trump put West out of the running. If he should discard a spade, dummy would let go the heart, and the spade king falling on the ace would prove South's queen.

A heart discard would establish dummy's jack.

The squeeze was more or less ordinary, except for the splendid precaution the dealer had taken in naming the club suit. It should be noted that a lead up to the club queen (as is customary) would be fatal in this case. East would win, and his proper return would be a spade. West's spade ace thus removed prematurely, the squeeze would vanish.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

A Perfume For Ladies and It Won't Break You To Buy It

By MIGNON.

(The Mignon who writes this column does not sell, endorse or manufacture any cosmetics.)

A delicate perfume is like a beautiful melody and any woman who does not know the influence of fine scents, better find out while there is still a chance for her to be a success. There are so many perfumes on the market that could be raved about that a woman who goes perfume shopping usually comes around in circles trying to decide what to buy.

If a shopper wants to try several of the best ones she has to go without lunch for a few days. That's why I am trying to pick out from the long list some of those that I think you would like best and that would not break you.

It isn't always the most expensive fragrances that you like best. I have discovered one that is the very essence of loveliness, yet the buying of it will permit you to eat lunch regularly. If you are in an after-winter depression, you better take your little pocketbook and go and buy a bottle of this perfume that I am talking about. My advice always, is to put it on the body and not on the clothes, and this goes for all perfumes.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column please Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Miss Anderson Exhibits Model At Garden Center

Of special interest at the Garden Center during the next two weeks is a model house and garden made by Miss Emma Katherine Anderson, of Marietta, who is state chairman of Junior Gardens for the Garden Club of Georgia. Miss Anderson entered the model in competition in the last Atlanta flower show and won first prize.

The material used for the house is balsam wood pasted on cardboard. Trees are made of wire and shredded green paper and painted dried grasses, and shrubs are of sponges dyed green. The garden is in perfect scale as is the model. The model is an automobile turning into the driveway.

Expansive fruit trees and vines are a feature of the paved terrace on the left side of the house, and a box bordered path leads to a delightful wall fountain, where realistic water is pouring out of the fish's mouth. All those interested in making models for flower show competition are urged to study the exhibit for perfection of style, color harmony and design.

Of especial interest is a niche arranged in the Japanese manner by Mrs. Willard McBurney, of the Garden Club, using pale pink yucca and deep pink camellias in a pale yellow vase on a black stand. A dead white background offsets the vibrant and angular stems and quince blossoms.

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph McKnight

EN ROUTE ATLANTA FROM ROOSEVELT INAUGURATION, Jan. 21.—The great drama of yesterday still persists. That moment when Franklin D. Roosevelt stood there with his head bared to an angry sky, his face lashed by the cold fury of a driving rain, and solemnly repeated the oath of office, was one to make the spine tingle and the emotions rise high until they pounded at pulses in the wrists and temples and put a pressure about the throat.

Somehow, there was packed into that one moment all the intensity of effort, all the emotion, the hopes and the prayers of all those who fought to create this nation and to have it handed down, as it has been handed, in an unbroken line of democratic government.

That was the big moment of the day. And there followed the great parade, soggy and wet and yet somehow smart and brisk. The marching cadets, the tramp of feet, the clomp, clomp, clomp of the hoofs of cavalry horses, the trim, grim grins, all made up a great show. Down the black ribbon of Pennsylvania avenue.

BUT WHEN THAT WAS DONE—

But when that was done and when the intensity of the drama had loosed its grip, there came the fun as a wet and happy throng made merry in Washington.

The new Georgia colonels contributed two of the better stories.

The regiment from West Point was given liberty leave after the parade, and the cadets were very much in evidence on the streets.

Now, it should be said that when the West Point cadets salute they really salute. There is no languishing or raising of the hand to the visor of their caps. They really turn out a salute.

Sheriff Jake Hall, that grand gentleman from Decatur, was walking down Pennsylvania avenue after the parade.

He forgot that he had on his colonel's uniform, representing his appointment to the staff of Governor E. D. Rivers. It was just another suit of clothes as far as he was concerned.

Four West Point cadets swung by. They sighted the colonel's insignia on Colonel Jake Hall's uniform, and they threw four very fine and stylish salutes at him.

"Hello, boys," said Colonel Jake Hall, waving his hand genially and wondering why West Point should be saluting the high sheriff of DeKalb county. And not until they were gone did it occur to him they were saluting a colonel of the Georgia Governor's staff.

COLONELS MANN AND DAVIS.

Colonels Earl Mann and Bill Davis had a narrow escape. Two West Point cadets gave them snappy salutes. "It almost scared us to death," said Earl Mann, president of the Crackers. "I tried to return the salutes and I hit my ear and Bill Davis put his thumb in his eye. But after that we were ready for them and got by all right."

Washington was flooded with soldiers and marines. All of them were wet. But all of them got a great wallop out of the fact the President had torn away the glass booth about the reviewing stand and stood there in the rain to review them, saying that if the army and navy could march in the rain, he could stand in it. That little gesture made him more popular than ever with the men in the ranks.

GONE WITH THE WIND.

The Raleigh hotel, where on Tuesday evening the Georgia Society entertained Governor and Mrs. E. D. Rivers and the visiting Georgians, was a sort of unofficial headquarters for the visiting delegations.

And on Wednesday evening a furious debate raged up and down the cocktail lounge of the Raleigh where the clans were gathered from north, east, south and west.

Gone With the Wind was the subject. And the words Yankee and Rebel were flung good naturedly back and forth. One middle-aged lady from New Hampshire admitted she had voted for President Roosevelt because of the book. "I am going to try and do everything I can for the south," she said, "even to joining the Democratic party." That book made me feel awfully bad about being a Yankee.

DR. RED BARRON.

Dr. David Irenus (Red) Barron, president of the Monroe Vocational and Trades School, was in Washington visiting his brother, Carter Barron, the leading theatrical man of the city.

Several of the papers gave space to Red Barron and his football exploits. But Mr. Red Barron and I have a story to tell which must wait for another day.

President Barron was having almost as much fun as President Roosevelt. He saw the parade from the Capitol theater in company with some of the stars playing there. I think he is almost sorry he didn't go into the theatrical business.

THE RETURN JOURNEY.

The return journey home finds the two trains of Georgians happy, sleepy, satisfied and still in a great good humor.

The Atlanta Constitution, which installed club cars on each train with refreshments extended to one and all, was receiving the congratulations of the hundreds making the trip. The late start from Washington was given additional delay. But even the prospect of a late arrival home didn't dampen the spirits of the crowd.

They already are planning to go back to Washington four years hence when the next Democratic President will be inaugurated.

WHITE TO PLAY CENTER FIELD, COCHRANE SAYS

Atlanta Boy, Series Star of '35, Counted On by Detroit.

By Jack Troy.

Jo Jo White, the forgotten man of the Detroit Tigers last season, is scheduled to return to center field this summer.

White, Atlanta boy and one of the heroes of the 1935 World Series, was his single which scored Owen with the winning run in the 11th inning of the third game with Chicago. He played only 18 games last season. He spent the rest of the time sitting on the bench.

It may be that the absence of ailing Mickey Cochrane had a lot to do with it. Del Baker, coach, handling the team while Cochrane was recovering from a serious illness, apparently forgot the boy whom Cochrane himself considered a sparkling and, perhaps, his finest defensive outfielder. Anyway, Cochrane is well again—so well he has announced an intention of catching 100 or more games—and, at the same time, the stock of Jo Jo White, last year's forgotten man, has jumped.

Rudy York, the sensational young Cartersville first baseman who is scheduled to replace Hank Greenberg at first base, said recently it was his impression that White would return to center field.

"I don't know what the Tigers intend to do, of course," said York, who would appear to be a like in salary, "but I understand they plan to use White in center and Greenberg in right. I think the idea is that White's great speed would enable him to help Greenberg in the outfield."

It seems that the injured wrist of Greenberg, the Bronx Bomber, has come around in great shape but that the Tigers do not want to station him at first again and stand a possible chance of being deprived of his big bat for another season. For that reason York, most valuable player of the Texas league and American Association two years last running, is liked for his initial sack.

Sporting News of yesterday carried a story about Jo Jo White which sort of verifies the contentions of Rudy York.

WALKER IN RIGHT. "Mickey Cochrane has indicated that Gerald Walker will be assigned to the right field and Jo Jo White to center. That will leave Goose Goslin, Al Simmons, Pete Fox and possibly Greenberg, to fight it out for the other regular job."

"In any case, the outfield promises to be well protected. Cochrane is sure that the talent is adequate. He would be much happier if he was equal to certain of the quality of the pitching."

And so it would seem that Jo Jo White will be back in the middle, or rather, center of things in the Detroit outfield this summer.

And it is welcome news, indeed, to countless Atlanta admirers.

HIGHT BEATEN IN 'B' DIVISION

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21.—(P)—Pick-up where he left off as the opening round ended, William Eldred defeated an exasperating wind today to run his Peckaway trapshoot string to 397 hits out of 400 shots.

The Cincinnati deadshot smashed 198 targets in the second 200-bird round from 16 yards to pace a brilliant field of marksmen in the four-day shoot on the fringe of Florida's everglades.

The grand American champion, Joe Hiestand, of Hillsboro, Ohio, stood one bird back of Eldred when the firing ended Wednesday night, 197-200, and four targets back in the cumulative tabulation.

Shoot-offs were necessary to determine the "C" class by breaking 25 straight in the shoot-off against W. D. Blood, of Newark, N. J., and W. H. Soube, of Indianapolis, after regular rounds of 182.

Class "D" went to Dr. A. B. Conner, of Miami, who won from J. Kries, of Knoxville, Tenn., in the extra round by default. He finished the first 200 with 176.

W. Hill, of Montgomery, Ala., 191; R. C. Coffey, Orlando, Fla., 195; Sam Parker, Kalamazoo, Mich., 194; W. Horton, Moore, Okla., 192; C. Plummer, Flin Flon, Manitoba, 193; R. A. King, Wichita Falls, Texas, 195; J. Stinson, Bradford, Pa., 192; J. R. Johnson, Jr., Hartford City, Ind., 192; W. Sams, Athens, Ga., 191.

Gabler and Black Sign With Giants
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(P)—Pitcher Frank Gabler and rookie infielder Wayne Black today joined the ranks of the satisfied players in the New York Giants' camp.

They signed their 1937 contracts, and this, says Secretary Eddie Brannick, brings the Giants' list of signed 1937 contracts to 14.

Gabler won nine games and lost eight for New York last season. Black played shortstop for the Giants' Greenwoods (Miss.) farm team.

The meet will be staged at East Lake Country Club there, the third time for that particular club to be host to the tournament.

The association's first tournament was held there in 1911, and again 10 years later, in 1921.

Mrs. Mark McGarry, St. Petersburg, Fla., is the defending champion this year, having won her crown at Oklahoma City last season.

SAMMY BYRD'S 70 LEADS BASEBALL PLAYERS' MEET

Garland Braxton Second With 71; Eddie Moore Cards a 79.

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 21.—(P)—Sammy Byrd, who almost was barred from the national baseball players' golf tournament, came through today to lead the opening day's play and win medalist honors.

Byrd, formerly with the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds, but now with Rochester, posted a 70, one less than par, to take a one-stroke lead over Garland Braxton, pitcher for Milwaukee American Association club.

Wesley Ferrell, Boston Red Sox pitcher and the defending champion, was four strokes behind the leader with a 74, and shared third-place honors with Paul Derringer, lanky Cincinnati hurler.

Lloyd Brown finished with a 76. Tied with Brown were Jack Russell and Paul Waner.

Dizzy Dean, St. Louis Cardinal pitching ace, remained in the running with a 78, several strokes higher than his usual game. Ole Dix ran into difficulties on the first nine, but found himself later and predicted that he would be among the first three at the finish.

Eddie Moore, manager of the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern association, and Johnnie Moore, Philadelphia Phillies, were the only other players in the seventies. They posted 79's.

Willis Hudlin, Cleveland pitcher and one of the early favorites, failed to put in an appearance. A late entry was Manager Jimmy Wilson, of the Philadelphia Phillies, who needed 88 strokes for the 18 holes.

The golfing baseball players will play 18 holes each on Friday, Saturday and Sunday for possession of the Powell Crosley trophy now held by Ferrell.

Other initial round scores: Gerry Fitzgerald, St. Augustine, 80; Gerald Walker, Detroit Tigers, 81; Lyn Lary, Cleveland Indians, 81; Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh, 80; Jimmy Foy, Red Sox, 81; Rick Ferrell, Red Sox, 87; Roy Spencer, New York Giants, 85; Felix Hanisch, Brooklyn, 88; Dusty Rhodes, Baltimore, 92; Butch Henline, 94; Walter Gibson, St. Augustine, 91; Bob Burke, Philadelphia Athletics, 94; Bill Caspell, Philadelphia Athletics, 94; John Conner, Brooklyn, 92; Bill Swift, Pittsburgh, 90.

WARREN, INDIANS TO PLAY TONIGHT

Warren basketballers, winner of the first half of the Atlanta Commercial league championship and victors in 17 of 19 games, will play the Cherokee Indians, of Canton, Ga., at 7:30 o'clock tonight on the Fulton High court.

And Judge Virlyn Moore Sr., of the University of Georgia, and the Y. M. C. A. and who is leading scorer in the Commercial league, will play a wide margin, will play a guard position for Warren. He has averaged well over 20 points this season and has played both a forward and a guard position with effectiveness.

Bobby has led Fulton High to seven victories out of eight starts and like his older brother has scored well in each game. In fact he is the outstanding point getter in prep circles today, even though he has been closely guarded in several games.

Fulton High plays the Warren Reds in the preliminary game, followed by the Warren-Indian game, 8:27 last week on the north Georgia court and a return game was immediately arranged for tonight.

Warren will close a busy week of four games in a return game with the LaGrange Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock Saturday night on the Fulton High court.

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 21.—(P)—Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, and Mrs. Griffith arrived here to await the opening of the team's spring training camp.

Practice Makes Perfect In Case of Bo Johnston

Leading Tech Scorer Spends Hours in Off Season Shooting and Experimenting.

By Jack Troy.

It's not by chance that Bo Johnston, Tech's crack center, is leading the scoring parade after four games.

All those long hours of "extra-curricular" work are paying dividends. Most any day during the fall at Tech, one may find Bo Johnston in the gym practicing shots.

He experiments. He works on one-handed shots, both left and right-handed. And, as a consequence, he can shoot with either hand and with almost equal facility. He drills on pivot shots, on dribbling and passing.

And today he ranks as one of Tech's finest all-around players. He has won the court and somewhat ambiguously appears to be in a number of places at the same time. He is in the thick of the fight under his own basket one minute and the next minute he has bobbed up intercepting an enemy pass or breaking up an enemy shot.

"MUST BE TWINS."
He probably was best, in this respect, in the Vanderbilt game. Ken Overly, star guard, expressed the opinion that Johnston "must be twins. One player couldn't be in so many places at the same time."

There's really nothing flashy about his play. He simply does his job so well that Tech fans have come to accept it as a matter of course. That's because he is so consistent about it all.

Tech gets the center tip-off more often than not. Johnston stands six feet two inches and gets the most out of his height. He can outjump Bill Jordan, who is six feet four and one-half inches tall.

At any rate, Bo Johnston, the Savannah sharpshooter, has scored 49 of Tech's 178 points in the four games to date.

ED JONES SECOND.
Ed Jones, a fine all-around forward, ranks second with 38 points. Jordan is third with 26 points, one point ahead of Ben Jones, the Canton Crackshot who is just hitting his stride. Ben was Tech's ace scorer last season.

Another reason why Johnston has picked up so much in his play is that he has two solid underpinnings this season. Last year he played a good bit of the time with an injured knee.

PAUL DEAN SIGNS CARDS' CONTRACT FOR 1937 SEASON

No Terms Announced for Sore-Arm Member Of '36 Team.

By Felix R. McKnight.

DALLAS, Jan. 21.—(P)—Paul (Duffy) Dean, gangling St. Louis Cardinal pitcher who stubbornly took three months to sign a contract last year, went through the same motions in three minutes here today. Maybe new responsibilities had something to do with it.

Less than a minute after he had ushered Paul into a private town of his hotel suite, Branch Rickey, vice president and general manager of the Cardinals, came dashing out in quest of a fountain pen. Two minutes later Paul's signature had been blotted.

The contract completed a "grand slam" for the younger brother of infamous Jerome (Dizzy) Dean. Only 38 hours ago his attractive wife gave birth to a nine-pound son. He was named Paul Jerome Dean and "Duffy" admitted the size of his boy's hands indicated he would be able to fondle a baseball.

Terms of Paul's contract were not announced, but Rickey beamed and said "everybody is happy."

"I'm not counting on Paul Dean for a single game. However, it will be a pleasant surprise if he comes through. We are hopeful as to the condition of his failing arm and if he rounds into condition we'll just have to let a mighty good pitcher go somewhere else."

Dean retired voluntarily last season after his throwing arm failed. Rickey also signed Ray Harrell, promising right-hander from the International league, it was disclosed today.

Paul said his arm was in "A-1 condition" and that he wouldn't "fool around and be late for spring training" as he was last year.

Cards to Take 43 Players to Camp.
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 21.—(P)—There's safety in numbers and the St. Louis Cardinals, who mean to insure themselves against the harassing hordes in the National league, announced today 43 men would be taken to spring training camp at Daytona Beach, Fla.

The squad, one of the largest in the team's history, includes 18 pitchers, five catchers, 11 infielders and nine outfielders. Two of the players are veterans, three finished the season with the Cards, two—Pitcher Lon Warneke and Outfielder Stanley Bordagaray—were obtained in trades, and the remaining 26 are recruits.

HATCHERY GETS 500 PAIR BASS
Shipment of 500 pair of adult bass today from the Grassy Lake fish hatchery at Valdosta will complete the stocking with brood fish of the new state-owned Henry Ford hatchery at Fitzgerald, Ga.

The Ways Station hatchery was recently stocked with 800 pair of bass from the Bowers Mill hatchery at Fitzgerald, and the Magnolia Springs hatchery at Milledgeville.

Zack D. Cravey, state commissioner of game and fish, said the 2,500 adult fish would raise 5,000 young during a season.

The Ways Station hatchery will be devoted exclusively to the hatching and rearing of bass. It will be so equipped that young fish can be removed to rearing pools to prevent their destruction by adults.

Girls' Commercial Starts Second Half
The new half will start in the Girls' Commercial league at the Y. M. C. A. Friday night with Phillips-Browne, winners of the first half, playing the Rock Island team in the opener at 7:45.

Bolton Blues will play Walkhour.

DANA'S SALARY WITH LONGHORNS RUMORED $15,000

Athletic Directorship Is Part of Job; Students, Alumni Pleased.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 21.—(P)—The University of Texas only hired Dana X. Bible, one of the ranking football coaches of the nation, for 10 years at a salary reported to be $15,000 a year in an effort to re-establish the faltering Longhorn gridiron prowess.

The cool, bald-headed mentor, who coached Nebraska to six Big Six conference titles in eight years, thus will return to the scene of his early triumphs. The Southwest Conference, whose fame in colorful football he helped build as coach at Texas A. & M. College from 1917 to 1928.

Bible left Austin tonight to tender his formal resignation to University of Nebraska officials, but said he would return in a few days to take over the athletic destinies of the Texas school.

The contract provided he would be director of athletics and head football coach. He said he would organize the department and announce his assistants as soon as possible.

Dr. J. C. Dolley, chairman of the athletic council, said regular spring training would start about March 1 under Bible's tutelage.

The employment of Bible was hailed with enthusiasm by students and alumni as news of agreement of the board of regents and the new mentor flashed over the campus and the downtown section of the capital.

Governor Requests Kentucky Athletes To Play at Home

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 21.—(P)—Governor Chandler has personally requested two youthful Kentucky athletes to continue their football careers at the University of Kentucky rather than play under the colors of out-of-state schools, it was disclosed today.

The athletes, both high school stars last fall, are Charles Ishmael, of Pikeville, and Fred Davis, of Du Pont Manual, Louisville. Ishmael, the Governor was informed, is contemplating entering Southern Methodist University, at Dallas, Texas, and Davis plans to enter the University of Alabama.

Chief A. Wayne, director of athletics at the University of Kentucky, described Davis to the Governor as "the greatest prospect I have seen since coming to Kentucky." Ishmael, Wayne said, is one of Kentucky's "finest prospects."

In personal letters to the two youthful governor told them their departure from the state would "distress us all."

"We are reluctant to lose such fine athletes," the Governor wrote. "Changes are bright for a successful term under Coach Wayne's direction next year," and "it is my hope that you will give very serious consideration to the request that you enter the University of Kentucky next autumn."

BULLDOGS LOOK BAD IN PRACTICE
ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 21.—Judging by practices tonight and Wednesday, Georgia's Bulldog basketball team will enter the Mercer game here Friday night decidedly the underdog.

"Frankly unless the squad improves in a hurry, I don't expect to win more than one of the next four matches," Coach Enright stated convincingly. The Red and Black slashes won't Clemson in Clemson, S. C. Saturday, with Alabama here Tuesday, and with Tech on the following Saturday. The offense is terrible and on defense the squad looks only fair. The passing attack is far below the standard. In the other fundamentals the squad is equally deficient.

The starting lineup against Mercer here Friday will find Captain Charlie Harrold and either Lee Richards or Cott Vandiver at forwards; Jack Farren, center, and Olin Thompson and Harry Harman, guards. Farren, Harrold and Thompson are Macon boys.

and Hood in the feature game at 8:45. The public is invited.

Pepper Martin Cheers Cardinals

When Mates Are Low, Wild Horse Shakes Their Gloom.

By Thad Holt.

Let's swing around the National League with the colorful St. Louis Cardinals, in the uniform of a rookie, who in this case happens to be Abe White, and take a look at the doings of the rollicking Gashouse boys, who love a fight so well that when the opposition won't supply one, they fight among themselves.

Abe White, ace of the Buford (Ga.) team last year, joined the Cardinals in the last weeks of the 1936 season when Frank Frisch was making a desperate effort to overtake the flying Giants. Every game was a battle to the finish.

But the tiring Cardinals lost that day, just as they did many other days late in the season. And Abe White got his first glimpse of the Gashouse Gang in one of its famous clubhouse explosions.

As the Cards came in for their turn at bat in the seventh inning—

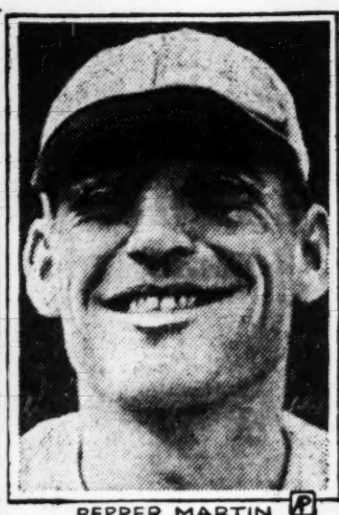

But let's hear Abe White's version—

STARTED THIS WAY.

"Yeah," said Abe, "they came in for their bat, John Houser, former Knoxville pitcher, who was going that day for the Cards, walked up to Ducky Medwick and said, 'You should have caught that ball. You were loafing.'"

"Whaddya mean, loafing? Snapping Medwick. I'm tired of chasing drives all over the field. What about putting something on the ball?"

"Houser nailed Medwick right on the mouth with a hard right. They fought about 10 minutes, it seemed. And the other Cardinals just sat there without batting an eye, and let 'em fight. They acted like they were used to that sort of thing, and I found out later they were. The next day I noticed Houser and Medwick were chummy as ever.

LOOKS AHEAD.

"Pepper Martin, truly the Wild Horse of the Osage, plays his part out in a game, but when it's over, win or lose, he forgets and looks to the next one. In the dressing room after the game, Frisch was zlim, and in a low voice, Pepper just slipped up to him and started singing some of those Texas refrains. Apparently that didn't get the results Pepper desired for he pulled a harp from his hip pocket and really went to town. And the next moment Frisch and his gang were laughing and clowning again.

"Pepper Martin is a 'card,' all right. He took a liking to me and one night in a Cincinnati hotel asked me if I wanted to have some fun. I said I guessed so.

"Pepper pulled out two pairs of overalls and suggested we put them on, along with two cowboy hats, and so downstairs. Well, we did, after getting some tools. We went down in the dining room. It was full of swanky-dressed people. Pepper said we were to pretend we were plumbers, so we took all our tools and beat on the pipes until the manager chased us.

ANOTHER ACT.

"I was just a rookie and I felt I had to be careful and couldn't do anything Pepper did. But a night or two later in a Boston hotel he put on another act and I had a lot of fun watching it.

"Pepper had on his overalls, his famous hat and some sort of crazy jacket. He spied a group of old ladies playing bridge in a clubroom. This Martin guy strolled over to them and sat in a chair about 20 feet from the old ladies. He took off that crazy jacket and then removed his shoes.

"And then that gabot started playing his harp, as loud as I ever heard. And between verses he would let out a mighty whoop. The old ladies looked like they wanted to run, but they were too astonished to do anything but raise those eyeglasses with a long handle and gaze in awe at the gleeful Pepper.

"As soon as Pepper figured he had sufficiently entertained with his concert, he put on his shoes and his jacket and said, 'Let's go, Abe.'"

"Yesterday, I see, when Pepper drove into St. Louis in a truck and signed his 1937 contract.

"Boy, they sure named those guys right—the Gashouse Gang."

MILO STEINBORN TO MEET HAGEN ON MAT TONIGHT

Karl Davis, Bartush, Steinke, Kirchmyer On Speer's Card.

Milo Steinborn, the man of might, and George Hagen, a great piece of wrestling machinery from Atlantic City, and a former champion of the U. S. marines, will meet in the top event of Frank Speer's weekly three-hour heavyweight show at the Atlanta theater tonight, beginning at 8:30.

Hagen and Steinborn, who is regarded as the world's strongest wrestler, have been paired off as a culmination of a series of convincing victories attained here by each man, these victory streaks reaching a climax last week when Hagen upset the rowdy Karl Davis, and Steinborn easily turned back Blue Sun Jennings.

The veteran Steinborn, campaigning for still another chance at the heavyweight crown, and apparently in his best condition of several years, will have need of his bear hug and max last week when Hagen upset the rowdy Karl Davis, and Steinborn easily turned back Blue Sun Jennings.

Regardless of the outcome, however, the match should be one of first-class action and productive of real science. Despite the ban on flagrant fouling by the Atlanta commission, fireworks are almost sure to be set off when the colorful Karl Davis takes on Billy Bartush, young fire-eater from the east. While Davis is adept at the scientific game, he invariably takes a rougher and more brief route to subdue his opponents.

Hans Steinke, known to the world over as a topnotch matman, is scheduled to meet the former star of the 1932 United States Olympic team, Roland Kirchmyer, in a 30-minute opener.

It is a show of top talent all down the line and should rate favorably with the interesting program offered by Speer since he became heavyweight matchmaker in Atlanta.

Popular prices will be in effect.

BILTMORE COMPANY SEEKS COURT ORDER FOR REORGANIZATION

Plan Is Approved by Bondholders' Protective Committee, Petition Says.

The Atlanta Biltmore Hotel Company yesterday sought reorganization under provisions of section 77-B of the bankruptcy act in a motion filed before Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

The petition stated the reorganization plan had been approved by the bondholders' protective committee, subject to the approval of the bondholders. William Akers is listed as committee chairman.

The petition revealed that during the period from February, 1932, to the end of 1936, the property earned approximately $1,000 less than the amount necessary to pay taxes. Earnings, according to the petition, amounted to $126,800.40. Taxes totaled $127,852.50 for the same period.

Fas Bought by Mrs. Candler.
On December 31 the company owed city taxes totaling $56,803.01, of which Mrs. William Candler, whose late husband was receiver for the property, State and county taxes total $66,550. The $123,353.57 total constitutes a first lien against the property.

The hotel and apartment house property has been in litigation since February, 1932, when the Citizens & Southern National Bank, as trustee, brought suit to foreclose upon a trust deed in Fulton superior court. W. C. Royer and Candler were named co-receivers. In October, 1933, William Akers was appointed co-receiver, succeeding Royer, who resigned. Akers resigned in December, 1934, and Candler was appointed sole receiver.

Candler was killed in a south Georgia automobile accident October 2, 1936, and John L. Tye Jr. was appointed receiver the following day. The hotel was completed April 19, 1924. Bonds totaling $3,000,000 were issued in 1923 to finance the construction and operation.

Million in Bonds Outstanding.
At present $1,008,200 is outstanding in the original bonds held by the public, interest on which has been paid to September 1, 1936. Accrued interest now totals $376,395.

In 1934 the Callan Court Company intervened in the foreclosure suit, claiming ownership of $1,766,200 of the same bond issue. This claim was recognized by the stockholders in April, 1935, according to the petition. Accrued interest totals $803,894. The Callan Court Company is also due $363,184.00 in advances as a bondholder and $870,915.91 for advances as a stockholder.

Unsecured claims listed in the petition total $45,006.30. Authorized capital stock, all outstanding, totals 750,000 shares of no par value.

The reorganization plan calls for issuance of new bonds and other moves designed to enable continued operation of the property.

DEADLINE RE-SET FOR JOBLESS TAX

Payments May Be Made Until April 1 Without Interest Assessment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The treasury today extended for 60 days the January deadline for making the first quarterly unemployment insurance tax payments under the social security act.

Payments may be made any time up to April 1 without assessment of interest.

The taxes are collected from employers of eight or more persons, and start at 1 per cent with respect to employment during the calendar year 1936, increasing to 2 per cent of wages paid after December 31, 1937.

The unemployment taxes are not levied against employers.

E. E. Cox Defends Supreme Court For Independence in Voiding Laws

Georgia Representative Warns Fellow Legislators To Use Special Care in Criticizing Tribunal, Asserting Its Power Guards Our Form of Government.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Defending the United States supreme court for its independence in declaring important legislation unconstitutional when a majority of the court believes congress has exceeded its authority, Representative Eugene E. Cox, of Georgia, today warned his colleagues on the house floor that special care should be exercised in criticizing the highest tribunal.

Representative O'Connor, new member from Montana, had preceded the Georgian in a half-hour plea for more tolerance on the part of the court for progressive and humanitarian New Deal legislation designed to help the "forgotten man."

Judge Cox, a high ranking member of the important committee on rules, insisted that present complaint against the court grew out of its having voided certain New Deal legislation, including NRA, the Guffey coal act, and AAA, on the ground that these measures were unconstitutional.

Representative Cox declared that if our government is to remain divided into separate and independent departments for the purpose of one ex-

Lieutenant Kreml announced last night that the class is now ready for a week of field work. They will go to the scene of accidents to investigate scientifically with a number of scientific gadgets.

The field work is part of their course in traffic.

BRITISH BISHOPS VOTE NEW COMMUNION RULE

Sacrament Will Be Given to Divorced Persons Who Remarry.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Bishops of the convocation of Canterbury decided today that divorced persons who remarry may continue to take communion—a decision that might one day have a bearing on Mrs. Wallis Simpson if she marries Edward of Windsor.

The convocation rejected a resolution, advanced by the Bishop of Ely, which would have denied communion to such persons.

"I cannot condemn these people to spiritual death," declared the Bishop of London, referring to communicants of the Anglican church who remarry after divorce.

Only the Bishop of St. Albans supported the resolution. An adopted resolution on the divorce question provided that holy communion could be given even to "guilty" as well as "innocent" persons married more than once.

The lower house of the convocation approved a resolution urging stronger safeguards against collusion in obtaining divorces.

The Dean of Winchester, who presented the resolution, declared the "secular" of collusion is familiar to all. He mentioned no specific cases, but said "the people in the sort of divorce suits now taking place are prepared to go to the length of 'put up' adulterers."

SCIENTISTS WILL SEEK TIN, IRON IN ETHIOPIA

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Seven German scientists started preparations today to prospect for raw materials in Ethiopia as one of the first fruits of the Italo-German accord.

The party, departing for East Africa in February, planned to hunt iron, lead, copper, tin and nickel, but not gold or oil. Professor Leo von Zuer Muehlen, leader of the expedition, said he did not believe oil exists in important quantities in Ethiopia.

Muehlen will be accompanied by three other geologists and three geophysicists equipped with the most modern technical equipment for a year's prospecting to plot German participation in development of the African empire.

ANOTHER BRIEF FILED FOR ANGELO HERNDON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Angelo Herndon, Cincinnati negro Communist, urged the supreme court today to set aside his Georgia intervention conviction on the ground that an 1871 state statute unreasonably restricted freedom of speech and assembly.

His brief was filed preparatory to arguments next month on his appeal from an 18-to-20-year chain gang sentence imposed by Georgia tribunals.

Herndon was convicted of violating a Georgia law, passed in reconstruction days, providing that any attempt "to induce others to join in any combined resistance to the lawful authority of the state shall constitute an attempt to incite insurrection."

Herndon cited as evidence his sentence was illegal a recent decision by the supreme court setting aside the conviction of Dirk De Jong, accused of violating the Oregon criminal syndicalism law by attending a Communist meeting.

Heart Is on Outside Of Newly Born Baby

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 21.—(AP)—An infant girl, born with her heart on the outside of the body, is a patient at St. Louis Children's Hospital. Superintendent Estelle D. Claiborne said today. Physicians did not believe the baby would live. The heart, uncovered by tissue, lies on the center of the chest with its base connected to the larger blood vessels. Its beating is plainly visible. Possibilities of an operation to place the heart inside the chest were considered remote at the hospital.

The baby was delivered by a midwife Tuesday night and was taken to the hospital two hours later. It is resting comfortably in an incubator.

Infants occasionally are born with their hearts near the outer edge of the chest cavity and covered only by a thin layer of tissue. But an entirely exposed organ was said by the physicians to be a phenomenon. They are studying the child closely.
